A Classical Premiere

The actual making of our school year began to affect the students long before the official opening day had reached us. Upperclassmen frantically tried to earn enough money to last them through football season, and hopefully until the holidays, while underclassmen nervously awaited their induction into high school. Would we meet new friends? Would we keep our old friends? Would we pass all our classes? Would we have any fun? Never-ending questions that filled the catacombs of our minds and boggled our brains were soon put to rest as soon as the first week of school was behind us. Our football and volleyball teams as well as our cheerleaders, band, and drill team had already been cast into their roles and their parts began promptly after dawn. Our fellow students soon obtained their scripts and also were soon back into the pace of high school life. Once the credits were finally assembled, we were introduced to a prelude of activities for our possible pleasure and a prelude of school work for our definite displeasure. The administration beamed a new appearance with the arrival of Dr. Charles Blanton, from Kimball High School in Dallas, as our new principal. The year was beginning to take the shape of a classical premiere.

To Fulfill Our

The last day of the school week once again proved to be the highlight of our autumn season. We all came together during Friday pep rallies to promote school spirit and, in most cases, to release some emotions. The whole day climaxed later in the evening as we watched our football team clash heads with villains from a whole new district. With the addition of a couple of Saturday night games, a Beach Bash Dance, a Homecoming Dance, the always wild and crazy "R. L. Turner Week" and some dubbing here and there, our fall billing was filled to the end.

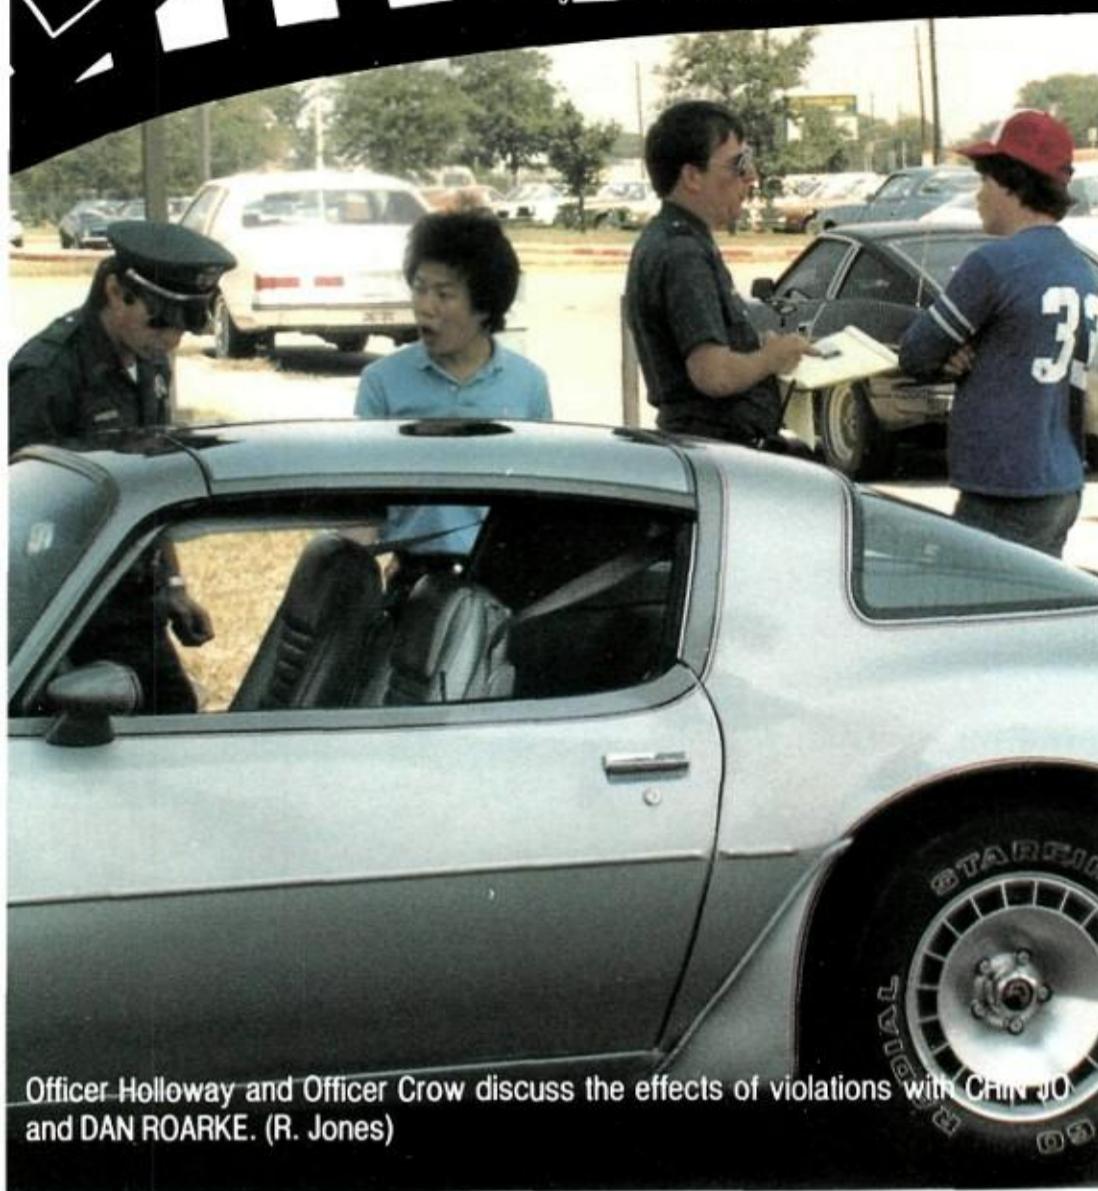

The reel started really rolling along with the arrival of the holiday season. Along with it came the thoughts of Thanksgiving dinner, Christmas gifts, and New Year's Eve parties. Seniors celebrated the season with first of many outings at the Ice Skating Party in November and the rest of the student body found some celebration at the Christmas Dance. Winter Break gave most of us a much-needed vacation away from school and time to do some last-minute shopping before leaving town or running out of money. It also gave us a chance to get together with close friends or some good times.

After the intermission, we returned to school and were immediately thrust into our first exams of the year. We also lost some good friends at the close of the first semester as some of our favorite faculty members changed jobs. Most of us survived the January massacre and entered the second half of the picture looking forward to the arrival of spring when we realized we were the star performers of our own premiere; stars of our own world premiere.

RETURN ENGAGEMENT ROCKS

The Homecoming Dance crowned our week of extras. The Dance, sponsored by the Senior Executive Committee, chose "Memories" for the theme with Blue and Silver as its colors. The D.J. kept us rockin and, when the mood was right, slow dancin after a dedication. In an effort to keep from tiring down, we were given a few alternatives. We could sit and get our Homecoming portraits taken by the good looking photographer, or get something to satisfy our hunger and thirst. Another alternative, not scheduled by the Sr. Execs, was a walk and talk, in the darkened halls. In addition to the streamers and stars found in the decorations, the entire wall of the cafeteria was filled with enlarged photos of previous years. They were found in the archives of the Journalism Department.

LEATHER BOYS FROM THE ASPHALT JUNGLE

Punk rock seemed old to some, but was a way of youth to a few. Many felt the need to repulse those not into their way of living and took to the streets in a 'bummed out' attire. This proper dress was the essential factor in completing the scene. Diverse views on major issues were the basis for group and song names. All this constituted PUNK!

CHANGES INTENSIFY YEAR

The year began with many changes. Two new administrators, Dr. Charles Blanton and Mrs. Lora Folsom, were perhaps the most prominent additions. Dr. Blanton, the new principal, brought mixed reactions from the students and faculty at first. But, after having time to become acquainted with him, they began to realize that he was a great asset to Newman Smith. Mrs. Folsom had been an administrator at Smith two years ago, and returned this year in the capacity of assistant principal. Most other changes affected school policies. The tardy policy was tightened extensively, allowing students one tardy before detention work was assigned, and two tardies before the student was referred to an administrator. Pep rallies were set up on a rotating basis in order to keep them from interrupting the same class too often. Each class was shortened five minutes in order to create the thirty minute assemblies. The Odyssey was distributed free-of-charge as a new student service. Changes were also made in the appearance of the school. The new varsity football fieldhouse was the largest addition, but a covered walkway was also put up outside the gym. Although changes generally tend to upset the normal flow of production, the people who make up Newman Smith were able to benefit from theirs throughout the year.

Spirit Rose

Pep rallies were changed this year from dominating sixth period to fluctuating between first and sixth periods. This idea pleased and upset certain members of the faculty. The coaches seemed somewhat upset because the football players needed to be fired up at the end of the day for the game that night. The rest of the faculty were somewhat pleased because their sixth period classes were not interrupted every Friday. The students had mixed feelings about the pep rallies. Of course the seniors were excited about having the pep rallies earlier so that they could attend. However, it was hard to rest of the students since they had to go back to class after the pep rally had ended.

Dr. Blanton helped the spirit rise at several pep rallies by speaking and firing up not only the football players, but the students. For the first time in about a year, each class exhibited its spirit each week by continuing to stand during the entire thirty minutes of the pep rally.

FRIDAY LIFE

Fridays were once again the highlight of our week. With our minds focused on pep rallies and football games, we quickly forgot about our algebra exams, English essays, and government events. Dances could often be expected to follow the game, whether we won or lost. These school sponsored activities were not the only way we achieved our social limits, however. A few deviates got off 'papering' houses or 'shoepolishing' cars, while for those of us who had cars (or could 'bum' a ride with someone who did), a late night snack at Chili's or a cruise down Forest Lane would satisfy us until Saturday night. For those of us who were apprehensive about how Saturday would begin, we could go watch the sun rise from the 7-11 videoroom.

Each year the Troyanns and cheerleaders come together at the end of the year to show the community their talents. This year was no different. The Fantastic Finale was entitled "Lights, Camera, Action" and reviewed the history of movies from the early 1900's to today.

Practices started long before the actual performance night, but extended rehearsals in the theatre began about two weeks before opening night. The week prior to opening night, rehearsals began at 4:00 and lasted until 11:00, and sometimes even later. The cheerleaders and Troyanns did numbers and scenes from such movies as "Gone With the Wind," "Singing in the Rain," "Jailhouse Rock," "West Side Story," "Saturday Night Fever," and "Grease."

Ticket sales began two weeks before opening night and each of the performances came very close to being sold out.

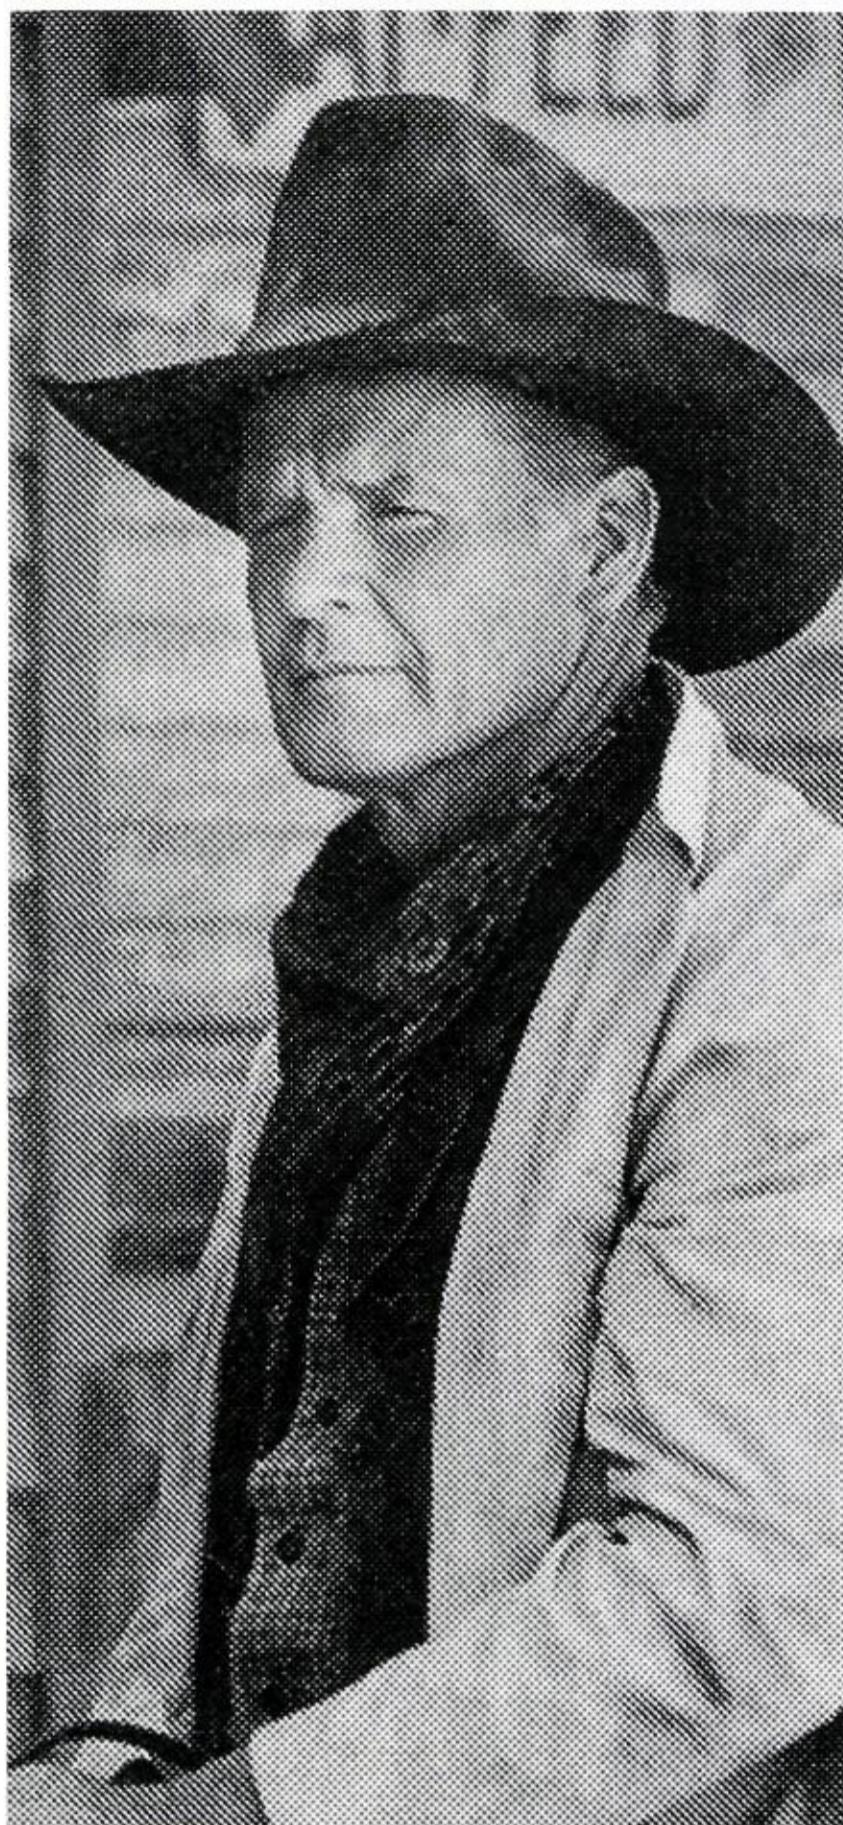

NEWSBREAKERS

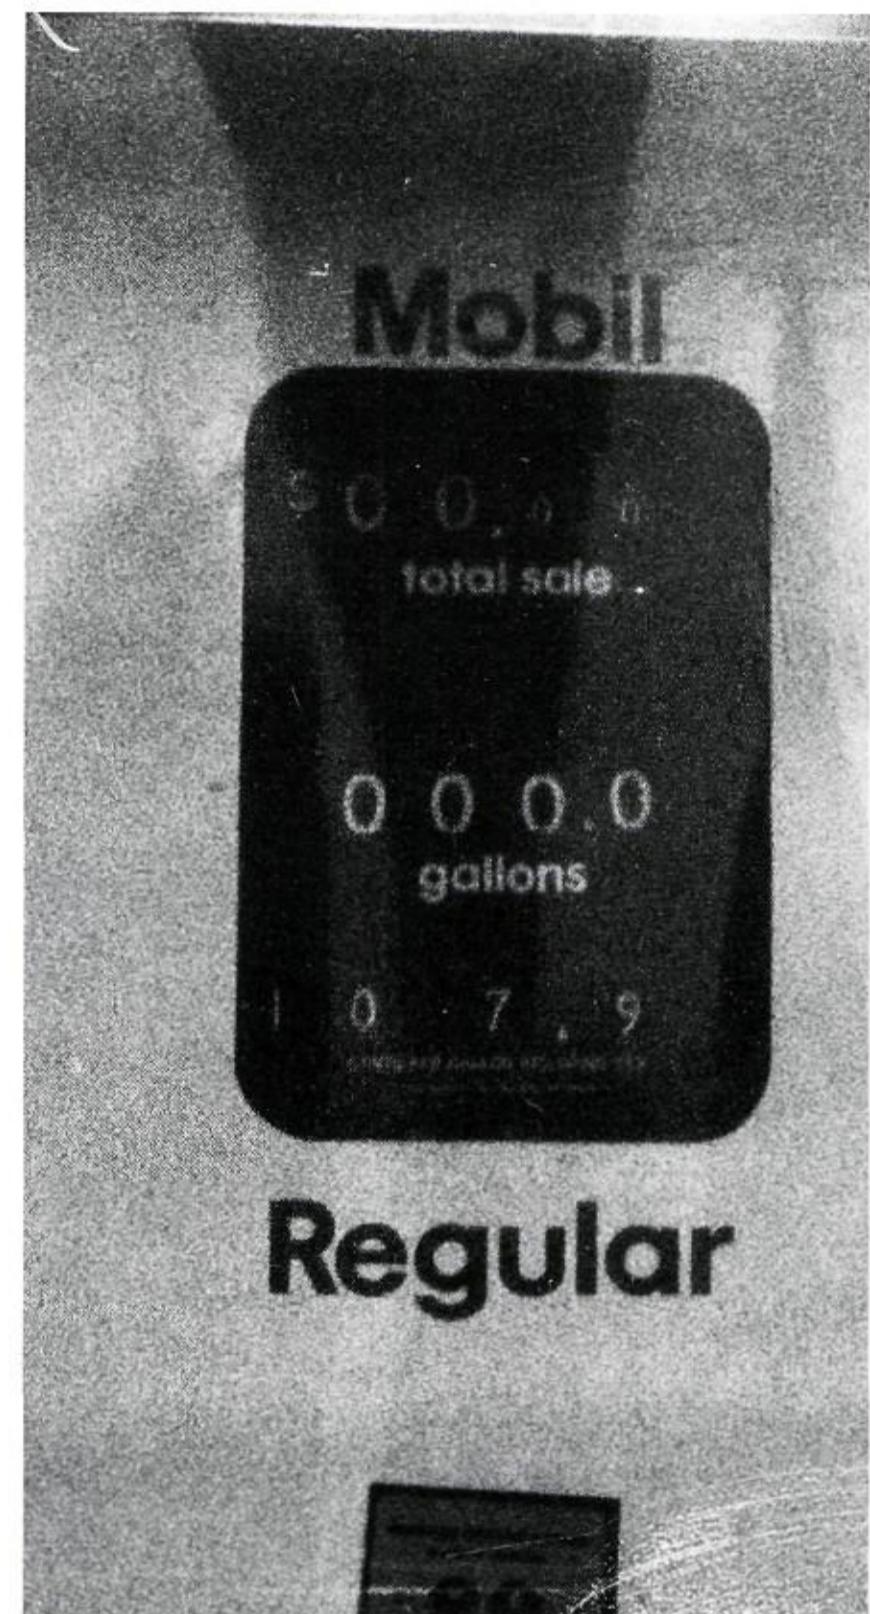

The passing away of the Premier Leonid Brezhnev gave way to a probably tougher regime led by Yuri Andropov.

Seven deaths in Chicago because of tampered Tylenol capsules caused the largest scale public panic to occur within years. Several other packaged products were tampered with and, subsequently, brought about tamper-proofing of Over The Counter drugs.

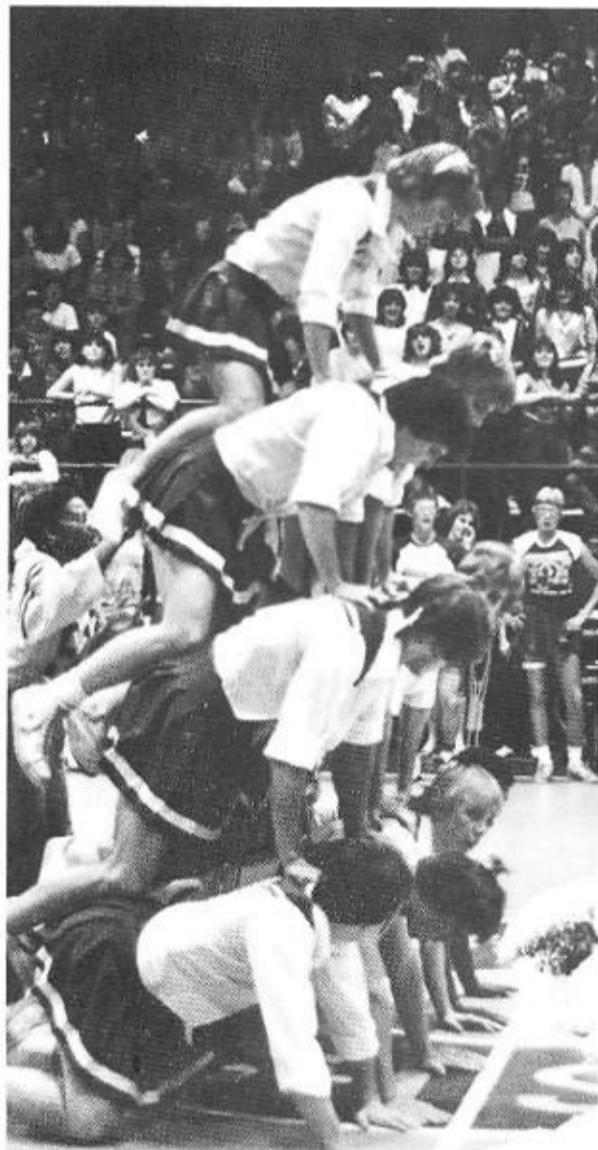

EIGHT WEEKS OF PURE ECSTACY! It all ended with the signing of the agreement to end the National League Football strike on November 16, 1982. Maybe next year.

Fickle voters responded to great sounding campaign promises as they threw out the incumbent Governor Bill Clements for the inexperienced Attorney General Mark White's vow to do away with the state gasoline tax. After the election, he was unable to keep his word.

POWDERPUFF GAME SENIORS' WORK PAYS OFF

The term "powderpuff" at Newman Smith not only meant junior and senior girls battling it out on the football field, but also junior and senior "men" who became twirlers, cheerleaders, and Troymans for the day and later at the game.

Practices began around one month before the actual game night for both junior and senior teams. The players were given various plays to memorize in order to prepare for the game.

The cheerleaders, twirlers, and Troymans also had memorizing to do. The cheerleaders had cheers to learn and twirlers had routines to "perfect," while Troymans had to learn to "dance."

The game turned out to be a bit less than the cheerleaders expected. Neither squads were permitted to cheer at the game because of some incidents that occurred at the pep rally. However, the game proved itself a success when the seniors came out on top with a score of 18-13.

BEING IN THE "IN" CROWD:

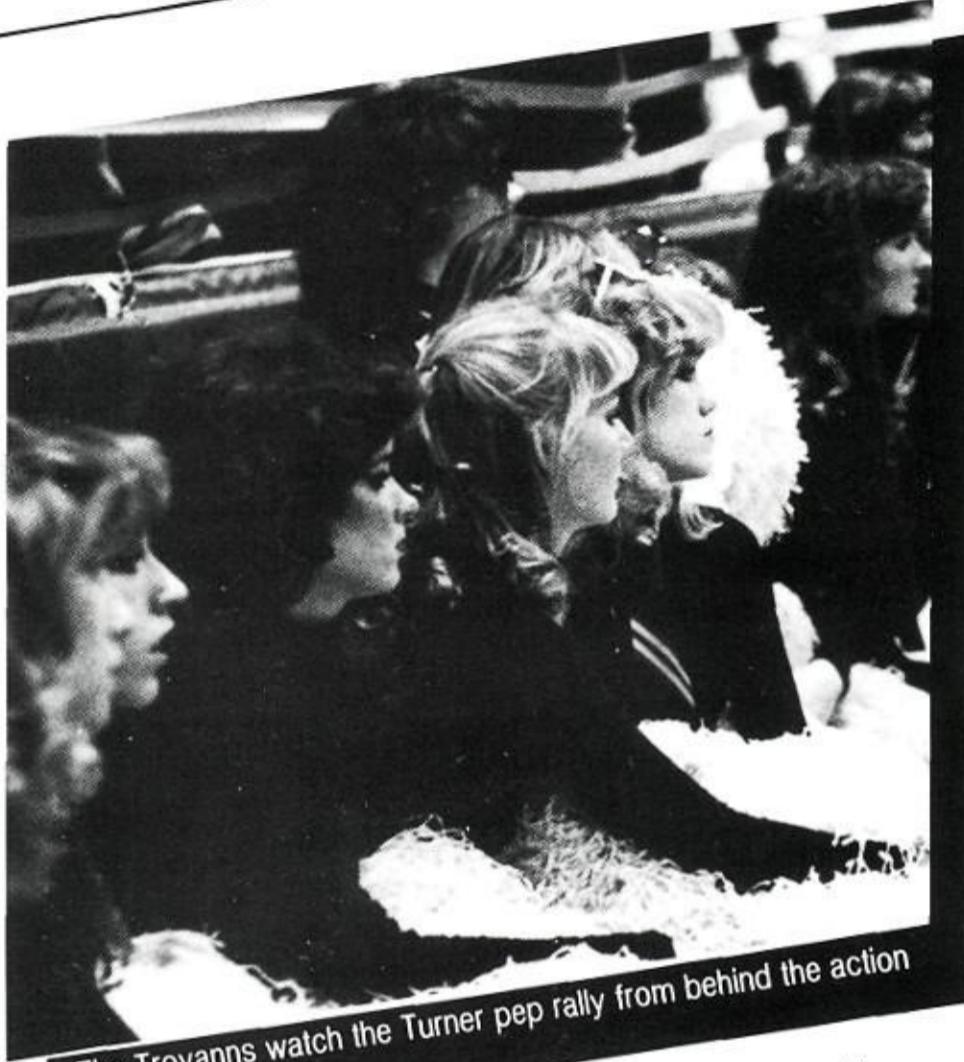

POPULARITY GAMES

The ability to fit 'in' with the popular crowd relied on what we had, what we wore, what we liked, and what we did. In order to conform to these fundamentals of social eliteness, the various fads and fashions had to be accepted without reservation. Wishing to be popular, we had to wear mini-skirts, or brightly colored clothes. Anything that completed the Olivia Newton-John look would also be tolerated. Besides the way we dressed and how our hair was styled, what we had and what we did affected the way we fit in the crowd. New cars were popular for the sporty side of life, while athletics or games of chance added spice. By participating in all of these, popularity was within our grasps. (If we knew the right people or had the bucks.)

Behind

The Troyans watch the Turner pep rally from behind the action line. (R. Jones)

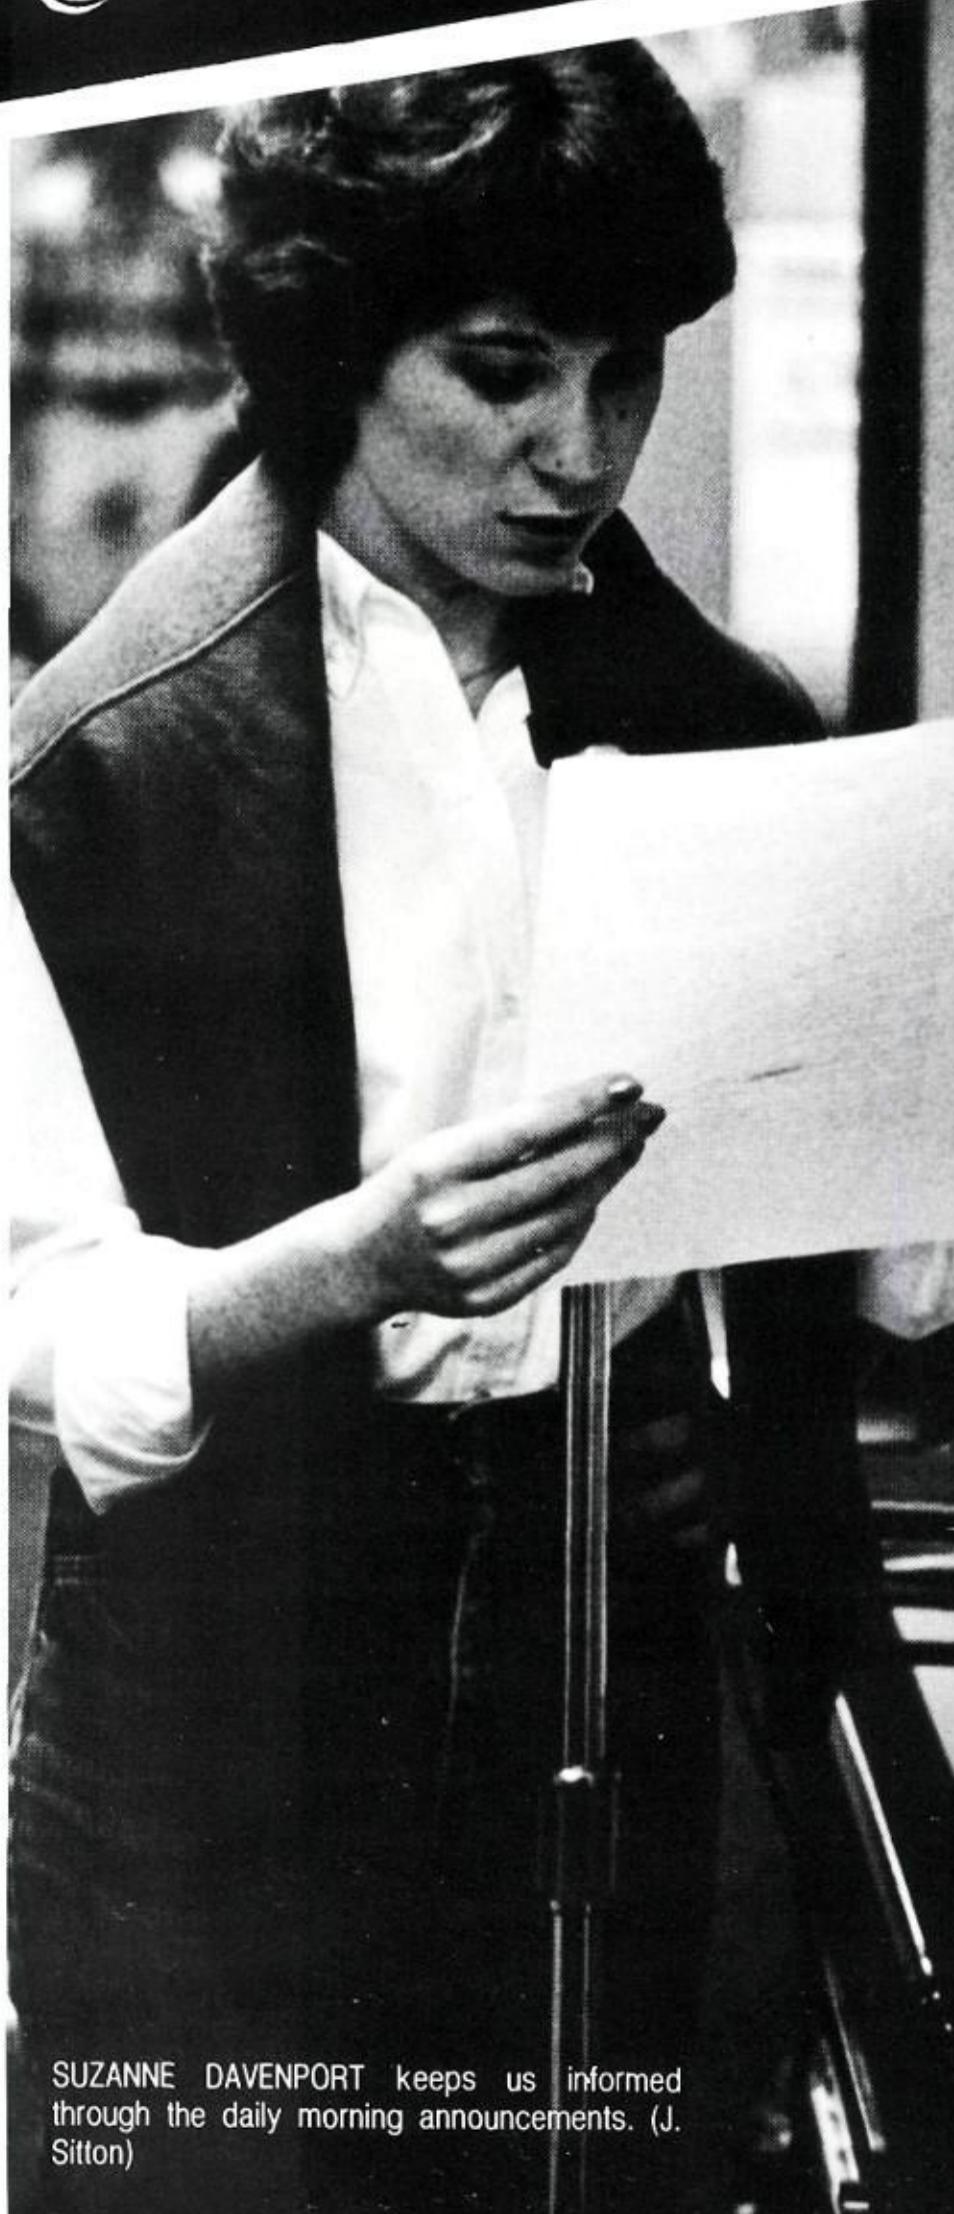

We often believed that our school ran smoothly all by itself; while in reality, had it not been for the efforts of several, we would have withered away. Our very special "family" did more than clean our carpets and serve food. They took the time to make our "home away from home" something to be proud of.

Numerous functions were performed by our administration, their staffs, and our individual clubs and organizations. The little extra productivity we put in BEHIND THE SCENES allowed us to be recognized in such areas as drama, music, athletics, drill team, foreign languages, and journalism.

We had computers that only helped Mrs. Kohn and Mrs. Millaway with the tedious operations required for graduation. These special backstagers composed the repertoire of our production of LIFE AT SMITH.

VARIOUS PLACES TO MUNCH

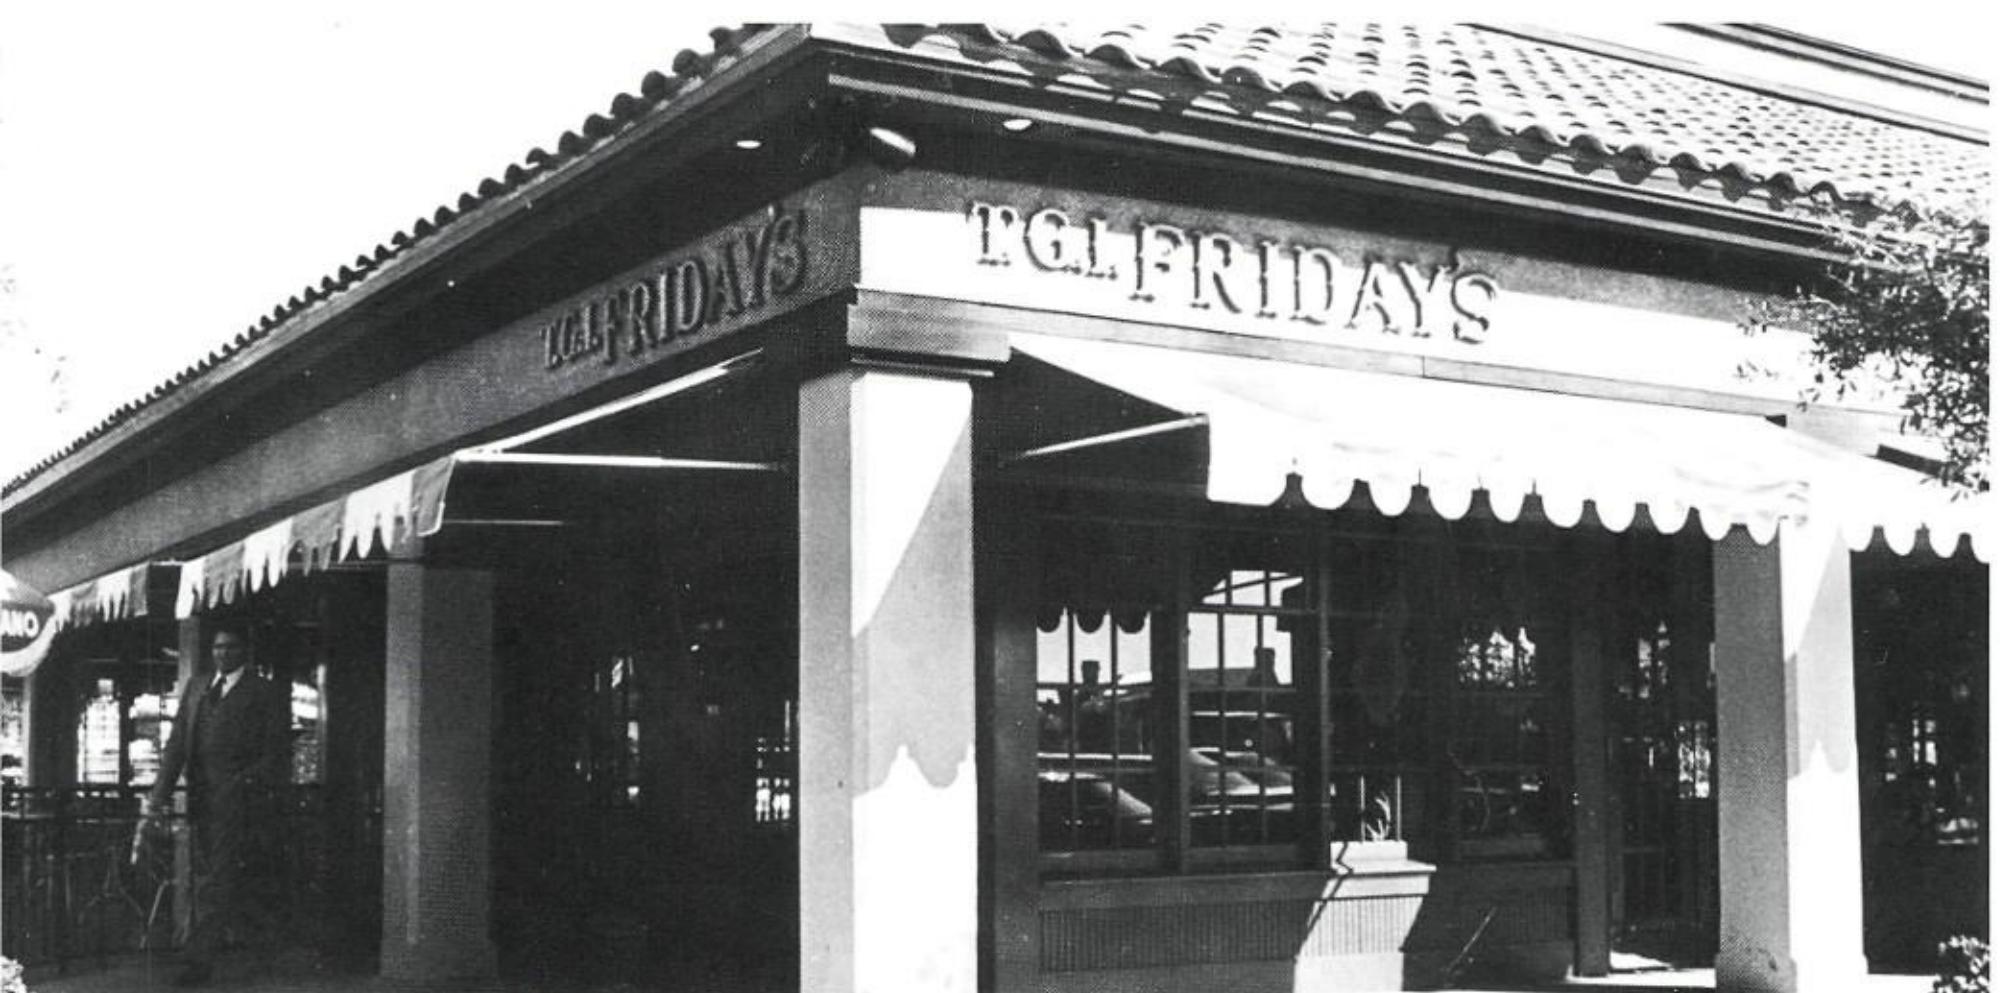

The idea of going out to eat for lunch and dinner progressed to a new summit through the year. Various places to eat encouraged people of all ages to spend their hard-earned money satisfying their appetites. Restaurants around the Dallas area included: Chili's, Chi-Chi's, Bennigan's, T.G.I. Friday's, Peoples, Magic Time Machine, Steak and Ale, and Crystal's.

Seniors discovered early in the year that time was scarce during lunch periods. This created a fast pace at a drive-thru rather than a leisurely lunch spent in a restaurant. Anything, however, was a step up from having to stay at school and consume whatever happened to be prepared by the lunch ladies in the cafeteria.

VISUAL ASPECTS COVERED LIFE & LOVE

Visual representations were a major part of our lives. Movies depicted every aspect of living. All types of physical and psychological problems were overcome. (Like the problem of what to do when a "SOLD OUT" glared out at you from behind the ticket window.) Innumerable obstacles cropped up in the way of true LOVE, but were usually put asunder with the aid of goodness. Evil anecdotes composed the interest elements of the "soaps." Seniors could watch "All My Children," "One Life to Live," or "General Hospital" and report the various synopses to the underclassmen the next day. We even had graphics in our own school. The immeasurable yards of filmstrips that were shown in Health, English, and Biology were supposed to enlighten and entertain us. Watching the often childlike cartoons, we found ourselves daydreaming about the real world, rather than the adventures of Billy Bob Butterfly's Eye In The Sky.

DAVID: "Ron! I finally got up the nerve to ask Rhonda out. I don't know where we're going to go yet. Got any suggestions?!?!" . . ."

(FRIDAY, 3:30 P.M.)

RHONDA: (On her way home from school) "O.k. It's 3:30 now. David said he was going to pick me up at 7:30. That's only four hours away!!! I'm never going to have time to go buy new shoes, wash my hair, iron my new blouse . . ."

DAVID: (On his way home from school) "O.k. It's 3:30 now. Let's see I've got to wash and wax my car, take a shower, buy some Binaca . . ."

(FRIDAY, 5:30 P.M.)

RHONDA: (Looking into mirror) "Oh no! It's 5:30 already! MOM! Would you iron my new blouse? What did I do with that new sweater I bought today? Oh my gosh! I think I left that sack in Lynda's car! . . ."

DAVID: (Looking into mirror) "Why won't this darn razor work? Dad, can I use your razor? Mine broke. At this rate, I'm going to have to call Rhonda and tell her I'll be late. Great impression for a first date! . . ."

(FRIDAY, 6:30 P.M.)

RHONDA: (Still looking into mirror) "Why didn't I buy some new mascara yesterday? THIS one's all clumped up. Let's see, it's 6:30 now. I've got just enough time to iron my new blouse (MOM!), and get dressed . . ."

DAVID: (Still looking into mirror) "It's already 6:30? Where did the time go? I've still got to get gas and MONEY! I used my last five at lunch yesterday. Looks like I'll have to go and cash my paycheck at the bank . . ."

(FRIDAY, 7:30 P.M.)

RHONDA: "O.k. It's 7:30 and I'm ready on time for once. I can't believe it. The one time I'm ready on time, he's late. What a way to go on the first date . . ."

DAVID: (On his way to Rhonda's house) "Oh no. I knew I was going to be late! I should have gone to the bank this afternoon. What is that? RAIN?!? It figures it would rain since I just washed the car . . ."

COUNTRY FAIR SUCCESSFUL

As usual, the Carrollton Country Fair proved to be a tremendous success. Folks of all ages gathered to exhibit and buy homemade arts and crafts that only Carrolltonians could enjoy. Booths were set up for such things as woodcarvings, crochet items, monogrammings, games, and last, but not least, food. Ideas for birthday and Christmas gifts were shared with friends and neighbors all over the Carrollton/Farmers Branch area.

One old gimmick that was carried over from years past was confetti eggs. Friends and enemies broke these confetti filled eggs over each other's heads to show affection or detestation.

Food booths were prominent at the Country Fair. They consisted of such things as egg rolls, hamburgers, homemade ice cream, cotton candy, corny dogs, chili, and much more.

All that attended the Carrollton Country Fair were pleased. The fair also created hope in the minds of others for next year.

"Does Anybody wanna buy . . .?" This question was heard every day of every week. It crepted up on the unsuspecting hallwalker between classes, and converged on the bus crowd after school. The only way to avoid the first plan of sales talk was to completely ignore the box-carrying Freshman. The real key to Plan A was the 'worthy cause' that needed to be supported. Clubs needed money to compete at conventions, attend summer camps, and pay for little extras in scenery for the drama department. When this failed to produce sales, she would have to switch to Plan B. Plan B consisted of isolating a friend and giving him the 'guilt' trip. "But Bob, you bought Shelly's Band soap, Kelly's Troyann key chains, and Patty's HOCE pizza! Why won't you buy my Freshman cookies? Do you like them more than me?" This along with a few tears would usually convince the entire hall to purchase WHATEVER you were selling — just to keep you quiet.

DEBATE: COERCION TO WIN

Stage presence, the ability to express the moment, thought or action. That is what drama and debate are all about. Hundreds of students spend many of their waking hours trying to master that art. They want to raise heads when they speak and to have everyone thinking their way. Under the leadership of Ms. Peveto and Ms. Schleimer, the drama groups competed very successfully at local, state and national levels. These groups also produced public performances three times this year, beginning with "ESCB" in September, "Mildred Wild" was the one-act performance, and the year culminated with the presentation of "Years Ago."

Dr. Rhodes was a driving force behind the success of the debating teams this year. Tournaments took the squads to many cities across the state of Texas, ranging from Grand Prairie to Houston. The Hillcrest tournament was perhaps one of the most successful for the squad, with it winning first place in overall debate sweepstakes. At the U.I.L. district level the debating team of James Clendenon and Chris Martin placed in the quarter finals in standard debate.

OUR SPIRIT EXTENSIONS

Pep Club started the football season off with hand routines, cheers, and school spirit. They made a striking appearance in their new green and gold uniforms. As the season ended, pep club spent many hours of preparation for drill team and cheerleader try-outs in the spring.

The Trojan Flag-Corps and the twirlers prepared for halftime performances, contests, and pep rallies. New members were introduced to the experience of building Trojan spirit through their performance. The two clubs along with the Trojan band and Troyanns participated in UIL and Parade of Champions, and later qualified for state competition in Austin.

BAND '82

Then it's off of the field to stand at attention for the other band's performance. Finally, back to the stands, where the work continues, playing for touchdowns and performing crowd pleasers such as "We Got the Beat."

The Band's performing time was not limited solely to football games. Hours of practice went toward UIL, The Parade of Champions, and state competition. They placed 4th at The Parade of Champions, and received all "ones" at UIL marching contest. This qualified them for state competition, where they received a "two" overall.

Dedication, pride, punctuality and responsibility are all characteristics of a band member. Practices starting at 7 o'clock in the morning, and marching in the cold, wet, and mud tend to do something to the sole. "Mr. Bohls is very demanding, and he knows it; but he doesn't ask for anything you can't do," said Joy Adkins.

BAND: A FULL YEAR'S WORK

The marching season ended with a sigh of relief, but the band went on practicing for state competition in Austin. It was then time for Area Band tryouts held at Southern Methodist University. As a result four separate bands were created. The traditional Symphonic, Concert, and Jazz bands were brought back again this year along with a new group called "The Trojan Technique Band." During the month of February the groups began preparing for the University Interscholastic League Solo Ensemble at W. T. White High School. The Jazz band also participated in a Jazz Band Festival. Later in April, the bands hosted a U.I.L. Band Concert and Sightreading Contest held here at Newman Smith High School. They concluded their successful year with one last concert and Music Festival followed by their Spring Banquet in May.

ORCHESTRA WELL

The screech of violin bows being drawn across untuned strings, the pluck of a bass as the player tries to find the right string, clarinets wailing out A flats as the piano player pumps his ivories — these are all sounds of an orchestra tuning-up. The Newman Smith orchestras were very finely tuned this year by Mr. Kenneth Dockray, as he led them through unmatched performances locally, statewide, and even in Carlsbad, New Mexico.

For the first time at Newman Smith, the orchestras held what they hope will become an annual dinner in the cafeteria. The dinner was held on October 21, and proved to be a great success. A covered dish supper was also held during the year, to help raise money for the groups' various activities during the year.

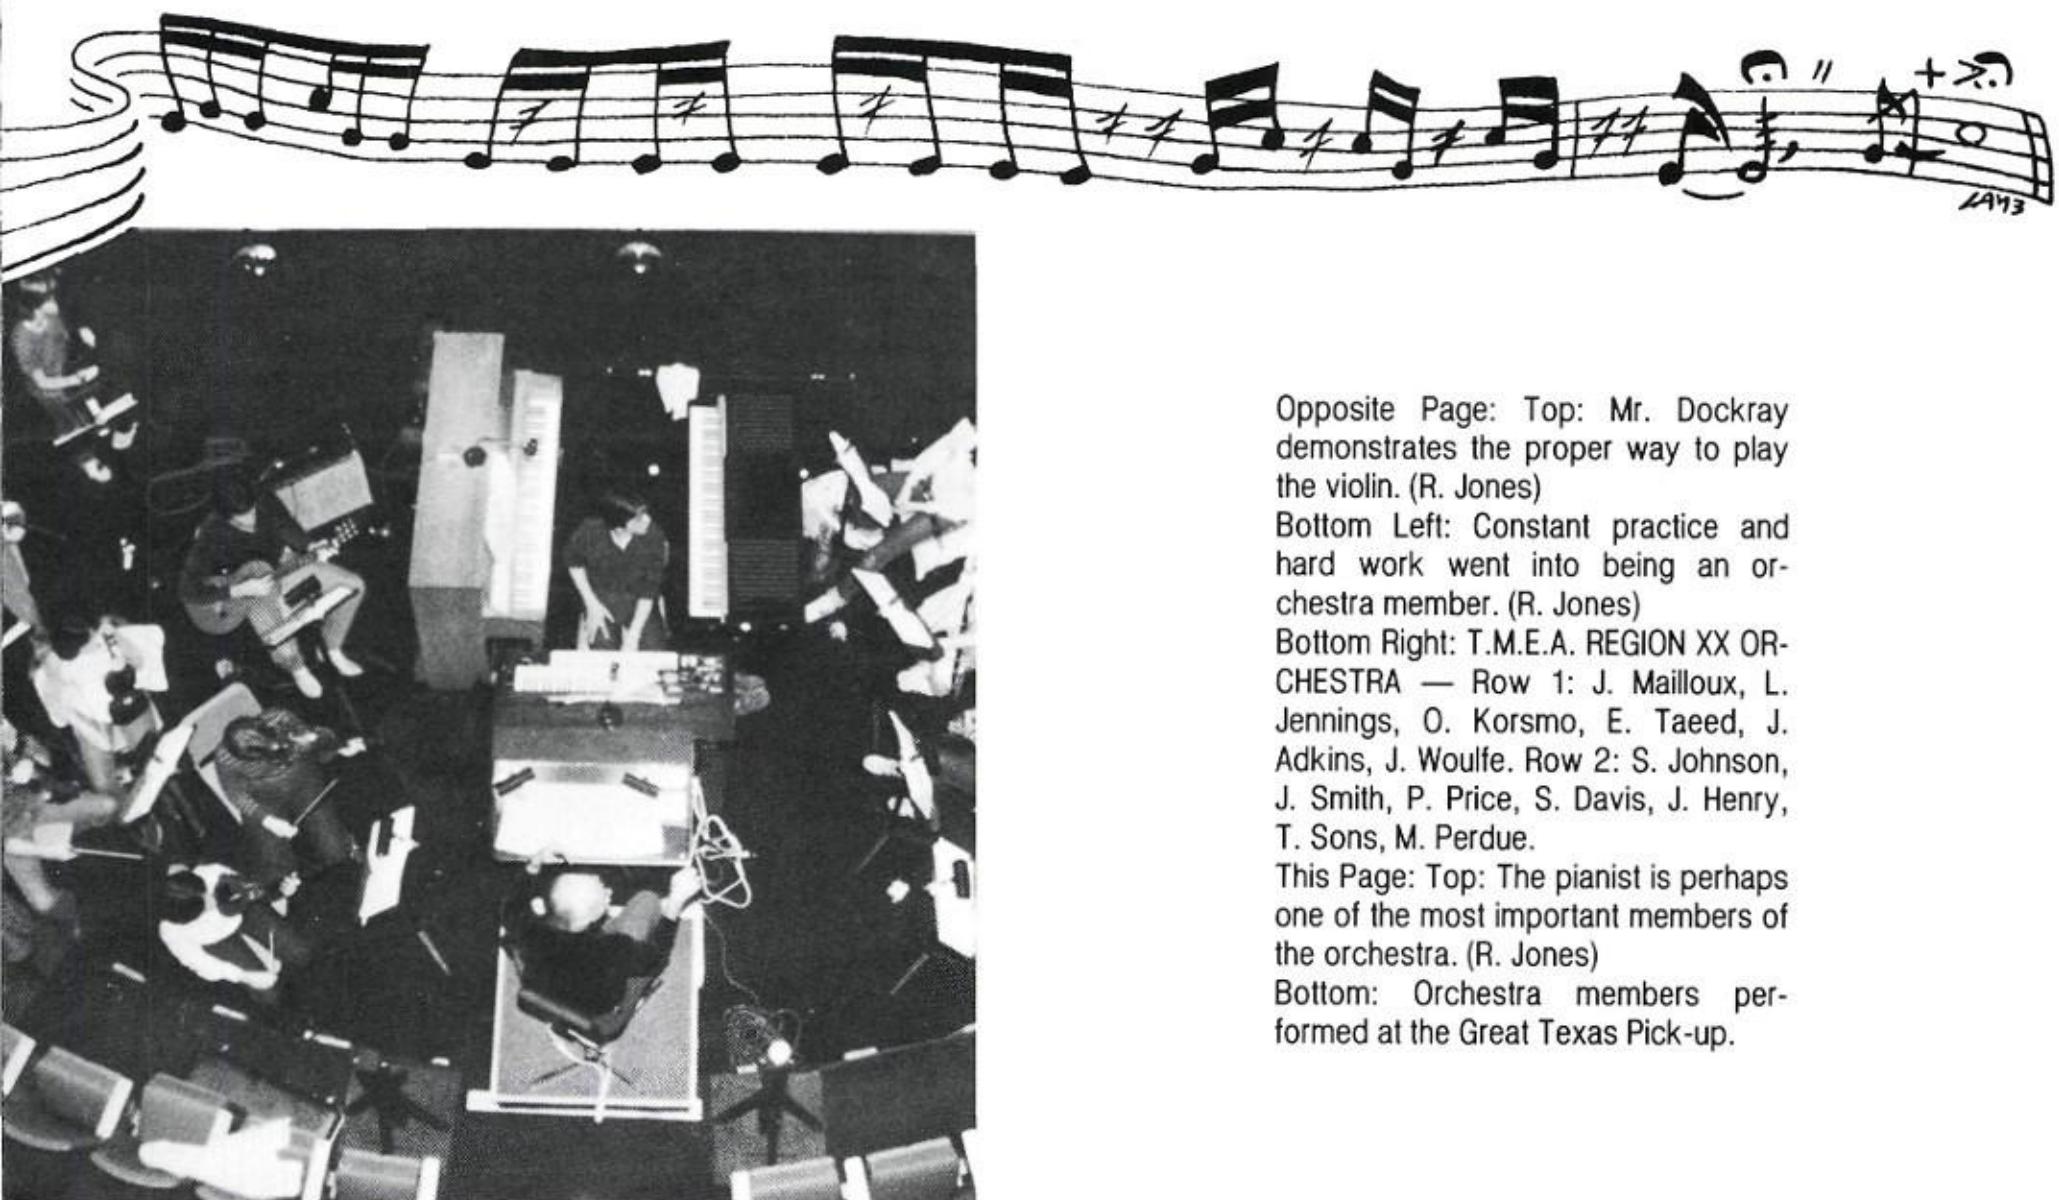

The Symphony Orchestra took Sweepstakes, earning a Division I from all the judges in both Concert and Sightreading portions of the contest. In addition, musical history was made as the Symphony Orchestra and Symphonic Band earned Sweepstakes honors.

Other concerts during the year included performing at the Great Texas Pick-up, a Kiddie Concert for local fourth graders, and a spring show in the theater. The year culminated with a banquet at the Summit Hotel.

The lights go up, the director's sticks find their normal place on the shelf, stands are dismantled, violins and basses return to their ever so stuffy cases, and the orchestras go home until the next concert.

CHOIR UNDER NEW DIRECTOR

Under the new direction of Jim Sparks, the choirs started the year off on a good note. Vocal Ensemble added choreography to its performances this year. It also became a show choir specializing in pop music. In addition, Vocal Ensemble participated in concerts at Brookhaven along with performing for junior high and elementary schools.

During Christmas, A Cappella and Woman's Choir sang at Sakowitz Village. Vocal Ensemble performed at Retirement Inn and all of the choirs joined the orchestra for a Christmas performance at the school.

All the groups performed spring concerts and students from A Cappella participated in the Fine Arts Review.

Vocal Ensemble helped the school out by performing for the PTA during "Love NSHS Week." They were joined by A Cappella in providing entertainment for the first Great Texas Pick-Up.

Officers for A Cappella choir were: Jeff Hall, President; Kelly Linders, Vice-president Stacia Sivess, Secretary; Laurie Coleman, Treasurer; Janet Mailloux, Librarian; and Colleen Cobler, Social Chairman.

LEADERSHIP PAR EXCELLENCE STUDENT SENATE AND NHS

At 7:30 the first Thursday of every month Newman Smith's National Honor Society met to discuss current activities. These students not only had above average grades, but they also pledged to be students of strong leadership, service and character. Members sold Smithmas cards and tutored weekly by appointment. New members, accepted fall and spring semesters, were kidnapped and taken to breakfast at Kip's. In the spring, NHS members competed for national scholarships with the sponsors making the final decision. Mrs. Strickland, Mrs. Fife, Mrs. Noell and Mrs. Mohammadi worked closely with the students, giving support and guidance as sponsors of the National Honor Society.

The 1982-83 student senate represented the students and the administration of our school, along with providing services for the community. During Christmas, the senate held an annual canned food drive. Canned food was collected and delivered to the needy. Senators also publicized and sponsored the annual blood drive held February 10th.

Close to 100 pints were donated by students and faculty. Members organized the distribution of student ID's in the fall. This was the first year that personalized I.D.'s were given to the students. The year was concluded with an exchange day, co-sponsored with R. L. Turner. Student senate members attended classes at R. L. Turner, thus allowing them to see what life at our sister school is really like. Overall, it was a very successful year for our student senate, with many goals reached and many campaigns fought and won.

WHIZ QUIZ AND LATIN CLUB

Tom Sawyer, Tarzan, E=MC², "Real Men" and their quiche (pronounced kwitchy), Reaganomics and the space shuttle: these are not merely words or things, rather they are answers, something which a Whiz Quizzer holds near and dear to his heart. Whiz Quizzers put many hours each week into scrimmage and study in order to know answers about the past and present, traditions and fads, music and math. All of this work set the stage for competition against other schools in the area. Undaunted by defeat against Skyline High School, practice resumed during the spring semester in anticipation of victory the next year. Under the leadership of Mrs. Dedmon and Mrs. Parker, fifteen members competed for the four active team positions, with Terry Wagner, James Clendenon, Jeff Adams and Thomas Pentecost finally facing the Skyline team.

Veni, vidi, vici Latinam . . . Caesar said it once, and now it is the slogan on last year's Latin Club t-shirts. Loosely translated it means "I came, I saw, I conquered Latin." Latin may be a dead language, but the club last year was alive and feeling fine. Made up of members from both Turner and Smith, the club does not meet during the football season. Activities for this year included a bake sale, a Christmas party, and a spring banquet. The Christmas party, which was held at the house of Phyllis McBride, was combination toga party and new member initiation. Members were also required to bring toys which were later donated to Santa's helpers. The theme of the spring banquet was Roman Mythology, with each member dressing as a mythological character. Elections for officers were held at the banquet, and prizes were awarded for best costume.

SPANISH AND FRENCH CLUBS

Buenas días . . . Como está usted . . . O, no hablo español . . . Lo Siento. Did you understand that? Well, the average Spanish club member would. One of the major requirements of the club is the ability to use the language. Spanish games, dances, meals and projects such as piñata making, were an important part of Spanish club meetings. The club also participated in the Carrollton Country Fair and, with the help of its traditional rampball game, the club brought in well over $180. Money from the fair and from M&M sales helped the club finance out-of-school activities, such as a Christmas fiesta, a spring field trip, and a traditional banquet at the end of the year. Club members also purchased t-shirts, which were worn in support of the Foreign Language Week in the spring. Club officers included: Craig Hufft, President; Terry Wagner, Vice-President; Teresa Jones, Treasurer; Sharon Davis, Secretary; Joy Adkins, Historian; Glenna Harris, P.A.S.F. Reporter; Kris Carter, Nancy Kenton, and Shelley Wortham, Project Chairpersons.

What do Mardi Gras, calendars, "The Three Musketeers" and French Fete all have in common? Why, the French club, of course. The club kept a busy schedule for the 1982-83 school year, filling their calendars with special speakers, field trips, competition and parties. Maurice Elton, Professor of French at S.M.U., presented a slide show; and Katherine Bohnard spoke about music for a joint meeting with R. L. Turner. The two schools also joined together to attend the Dallas Theater Center production of "The Three Musketeers." The club excelled academically through the French symposium competition, which was held in San Angelo, and French Fete Competition in April. In celebration and study of Mardi Gras, the club's program for February could be attended only by those brave enough to wear costumes. A prize was given for the most creative costume, and the competition was tough. The club finished the year with a banquet. With parents in attendance, awards from spring competition and officers for the following year were announced.

Art Society and Photogs

The Art Society began the year with elections for officers. These officers, along with Mrs. East and Mrs. Youngblood, led the Art Society to its purpose. "To enhance our aesthetic awareness." To do this, they had meetings with guest speakers such as Jane Jones, held a cookout, met at Crystal's for a Christmas party, and visited the Dallas Fine Arts Museum.

Photo order, print order, develop the film. How many times have the photographers heard this? Probably too many. The photographers put in many hours of their time, out as well as in school. Many of them burned up gas on their own expense to travel numerous miles to football, basketball, volleyball, soccer, and baseball games, track meets, and club meetings. They constantly rushed around to capture student activities as they occurred. Ron Jones and Kent Johnston also entered pictures from both the yearbook and newspaper in the Inter-scholastic League Press Conference Competition.

Reporters keep busy everyday

By Linda Burke

Throughout the year, the staff of the Odyssey has learned a new meaning to the word deadline. From the first issue in September to the last spring issue, the staff members diligently worked on reporting the news and events of Newman Smith High School.

An average day in the life of a reporter usually consisted of interviews, fact-finding, or typing. Occasionally, the staff was rewarded with a party to commemorate a holiday or someone's birthday.

After the features, columns, sports stories, and editorials were complete, we were faced with the task of counting the words, writing the headlines, and trying to squeeze them on a page.

If we managed to make it through this stage (which we usually did), next came paste-up. This was when the paper actually began to take shape. When paste-up was finished, the paper was ready to go to the printer. During the little free time we had while the paper was being printed, we doctored the injuries we sustained from the sharp X-acto knives used to cut copy.

Our final reward came when we distributed a month's worth of hard work in the final form of a newspaper. The cafeteria served as the best place to get the papers to the students.

In the heat of paste-up....

by Jennifer Melkus

Paste-up...the process of trying to manipulate all of the copy into the paper and sometimes stretching available copy out to fill up twelve pages. There is never the perfect amount of copy and many times this is due to the problem of missing stories. One thing that always comes to mind when paste-up is mentioned is X-acts and the injuries they inflict. When dealing with X-acts, staffers must always keep in mind "Mom's" famous rule: "No profanity in the heat of paste-up." Despite missing copy and numerous X-acto wounds, Odyssey staffers have somehow managed to survive the pan-demonium of paste-up without disaster (at least most of the time)!

crazy antics fill days at camp

By Jen Archimbaud

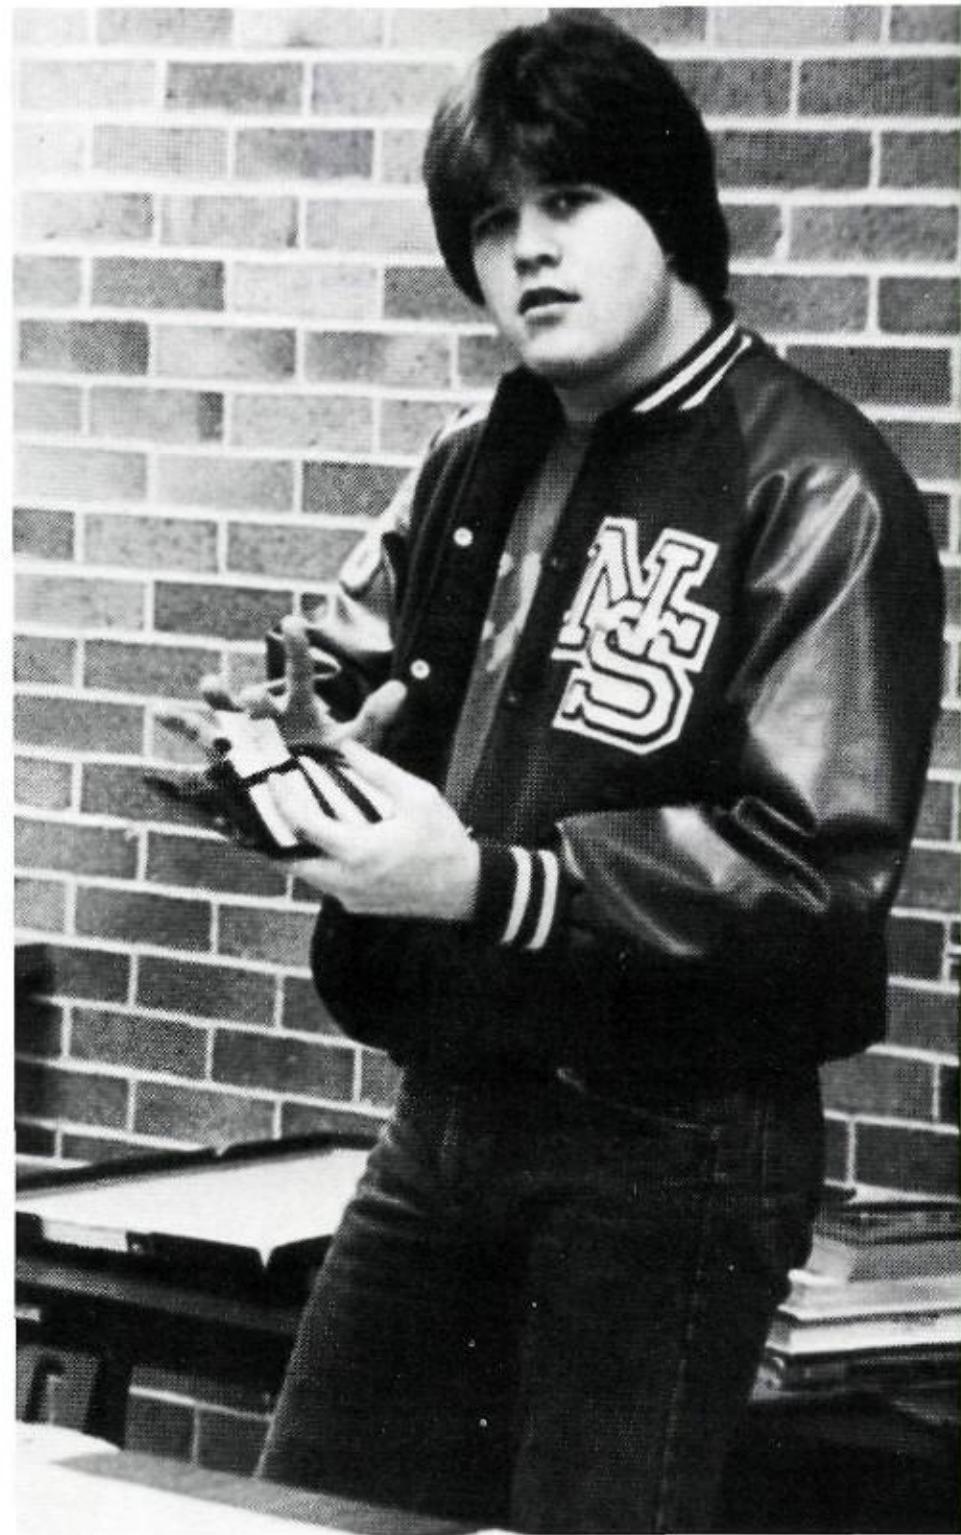

One of the rigorous requirements of being on the '82-'83 Odyssey staff was going to camp at Trinity University in San Antonio. As the time drew nearer, the idea of interrupting our sunny lazy days of summer with work did not seem pleasant. But once we piled in the van and headed out, things started to look up. The next five days were filled with fun and gave us memories we will never forget.

...the "Help! We're being kidnapped" signs in the window of the van...the Chinese fire drill in the middle of downtown San Antonio...Mrs. Rider getting carded at the movie...the pig-out parties on the balcony...getting the "Double Fisted Mug Award" for causing the most trouble in the dorm...sneaking into the guys dorm and wrapping them with toilet paper while they slept...dropping the keys down the elevator shaft...the teachings of Mary Margaret and Chet Baby...the Mexican restaurant that still had Christmas decorations up...singing "Happy Birthday" on the river ride...practically getting blown off the Tower of the Americas...playing the alphabet game on the way home and nearly getting run off the road because our driver was so absorbed in the game...

Although we had fun, we did learn a lot, and when we left, we were anticipating the first issue of the ODYSSEY.

ILIAD STAFF PREMIERS

Deadline? I don't understand. Someone told me that this was a study hall, or was it recess, oh well, I don't remember exactly what they told me, but they sure didn't mention any deadlines. I know that for a fact.

Copy? I thought that was against school policy! Anyway, I don't think that anyone in here has written anything worth stealing. Fourteen thousand characters? What's that, the cast of "Gandi?" This class is totally confusing, totally.

Quad-pack? I know, it's a joke! A quad-pak is what you get when you put four aggies in an MG Midget. Ha-Ha. I still don't get it.

Cropper? Oh, I know that one! That is from back in the days of the dust bowl and Okies, when the banks owned all the land and the people worked the land for a share of the crop. WRONG? Well, I would like to see you tell Mrs. Dedmon and Mr. Hendricks that!

This past year has been a very special one. We have grown very close as a staff, not just in our ability to work together, but on a personal level as well. Perhaps the one activity that helped to draw us the closest to one another was "Pixies." This exchanging of gifts between anonymous people forced us to look at each other in a different light, not just as classmates, but as friends as well. We tried as hard as we could, but just couldn't seem to find out who that mysterious person was.

In our attempt to create the best book possible, we began to explore new horizons in search of innovative ideas. The addition of two full-time artists to the staff certainly helped to express our ideas in print, and it sure didn't hurt to have them around when we needed just a little space filled. We also began to turn to the community for help, and even contacted the movie studios for different ways to express the book's movie theme.

Under the leadership of David Garza, Editor; Laura Ramos and Michael Karmann, Assistant Editors; and Mrs. (MOM) Rider we just couldn't seem to lose. Whenever a problem arose, there was always someone to turn to for help. Whether it be special graphics, word choice, teacher complications or general mass confusion, our troubles never seemed to last very long.

The chattering, friendships, clutter and games all "quietly" came to a close as the twelve senior staff members prepared to graduate. The journalism department will never be the same, you might say that we left a "lasting impression."

STAR PERFORMERS IN ACTION

SPARK AND PSYCHOLOGY

SPARK, which stands for Smith Peer Advisors Reaching Kids, is exactly what it says, reaching kids. It is a group of students organized to learn the skills needed to communicate with children of various ages. In order to become a member of this organization, the students must be elected into the club based on their personality and ability to communicate. Once the group is selected, they work on improving their listening and communicating skills. The students put these skills into action when they visited the Carrollton elementary and junior high schools. Toward the end of the year, they went on their annual trip to Meridian, Texas.

Psychology is a club to help students understand a person's psychological behavior. To do this, they involved themselves with various group activities. During the semester, they studied about dreams and what they represent, and positions in which people sleep. They also studied abnormal personalities and watched the movie "Sybil" to help see the split personalities in action.

WOODS AND WATER ADVENTURES

We're going on a snipe hunt . . . running through the woods, canoeing through the rapids, and skiing down the mountains. Each year Woods and Water plans many dangerous trips which usually do not go as planned, though they enjoy their adventures tremendously. This year's club consisted of ninety-six members and seven sponsors. The sponsors were Mrs. Noell, Mr. Studdert, Mrs. Watson, Mr. Jones, Jim and Sue Ellis and Jim Rider. Each year the Woods and Water club has monthly meetings and trips which include: canoeing, hiking, camping, and snow skiing during spring break. The year ended with a day of intramural competition at a nearby camp.

Varsity Cheerleader. Those two words meant so much to a special group of girls who put a lot of hard work into that name. Hours of dedication and patience went into being on the Varsity Squad this year as they qualified for national competition and created a superb Spring Show.

The year began early for the Squad with summer camp at Southern Methodist University. The Squad came out of the week long camp with six superior ratings, three spirit sticks, and a nomination to the Award of Excellence. This was the third year in a row for NSHS cheerleaders to be given this honor.

The squad, under the leadership of Sheryl Willis, Head Cheerleader, also taught workshops at North Carrollton, Dewitt Perry, and Vivian Field Junior High Schools.

Making banners for football games, decorating lockers and gyms, and constant working sessions proved to keep the squad busy throughout the football, volleyball, basketball, wrestling, soccer, and baseball seasons.

JV And Fresh Cheerleaders

Superiority. That word is worth a million when it comes to describing the Junior Varsity and Freshman Cheerleaders this year. Competition began with attending summer camps at Southern Methodist University, where both squads did well. The Junior Varsity girls were awarded all superior ratings, including two spirit sticks and a Superstar ribbon. The Freshman Squad won the Award of Excellence for their level, a first for a Newman Smith Fresh Squad.

Smith Fresh Squad. They also received two red ribbons, which are equivalent to an excellent rating; four blue ribbons, which are superior; one Superstar ribbon, and two spirit sticks. Competition continued at state level, where the Junior Varsity Squad was awarded a blue ribbon, and the freshman girls qualified for nationals.

The two squads did not spend all of their time in competition, devoting much of their free time to building spirit in the school. Locker decorations, pep rallies, competitions between classes and sporting events were a major part of their personal lives. There were always banners to be made, gyms to be decorated, and new formations to be practiced. Being a cheerleader was not all cost free either. Uniforms, uniforms, and more uniforms were all funded personally by the cheerleaders and their families.

Is all of this hard work and expense worth it? Just ask one of the cheerleaders after try-outs in the spring. It is doubtful that a negative response will be given.

TROYANNS '83

The lights go up, the clock reads twelve minutes, the band starts to play, and for your halftime pleasure, onto the field marches the 1982-83 Award Winning Troyanns. To prepare for this performance the Troyanns have dedicated many hours of practice, including early mornings, late afternoons, and a week's stay at Southern Methodist University for camp.

With all senior officers and 18 senior line members, leadership was especially strong this year. The junior squad members promised to make the next year just as successful. The new members, or "Annies," were initiated during the summer into a life of hard work and discipline. As the season progressed the members were no longer separated by grade level; rather, joined together to form an energetic team which proved to make this year the best ever.

The lights dim; the energy is now directed to competition. The Troyanns participated in The Parade of Champions and UIL competition. Straight "ones" at UIL qualified the drill team to compete in state competition at Austin. Other competitions included Miss Texas Drillteam and Marching Auxiliary, which were held in the Spring. The Troyanns concluded the year with their traditional Spring Show. As the 1982-83 Troyanns look back at the year, they have many fond memories of hard work, lasting friendships, and good times.

NOWPLAYING

ON THE VERGE

The 1982 Varsity Football team began the year behind the seat of high expectations. High school football critics had the team picked to finish high in District 8-5A. Head Coach Bubba Fife and assistant coaches Charles Quisenberry, Lance Brown, Jeff Davis, and Dennis Lemmons provided the team with all their knowledge of the sport. It seemed as if Trojan Football had finally come into its own.

The Trojans opened the season with an impressive victory over Berkner, but dropped their next two pre-district contests to Denton and Lakeview Centennial. The Trojans opened district play against defending district champion Grand Prairie. The Trojans played with tremendous enthusiasm. The game was locked in a scoreless tie until midway through the fourth quarter when Kendall Quisenberry put the Trojans on the board with a field goal. However, two misread plays by an overall stubborn Trojan defense paved the way for a Gopher comeback and with little time remaining on the clock, the Gophers scored to win the game 7-3.

The Trojans' performance during the next few weeks included a victory, a loss, and a tie. The Nimitz Vikings proved to be the team to beat in district play. The Trojans displayed a fine offensive effort against the Vikings but came away short from the eventual district champion. The Trojans rebounded from their loss to Nimitz by registering a shut-out against the MacArthur Cardinals. Entering the final week of play, the Nimitz and Grand Prairie schools were forced to forfeit all victories after a UIL ruling. This gave the Trojans an outside shot at reaching the state playoffs. The dream of reaching the state playoffs was destroyed after the District Executive Committee reinstated all victories forfeited by Nimitz and Grand Prairie.

The final week of the season was still highlighted with the annual meeting of the R. L. Turner Lions. Senior Rodney Hare scored two touchdowns and a fine defensive effort by seniors Ward Cannon, Robert Hare, Rick Higgins, and Darran Brown helped the Trojans defeat the Lions for the second time in two years and allowed the team to record their third shut-out in the same period. The Trojans ended the season in fourth place with a 3-3-1 record and again showed critics that the Trojans were on the verge of being champions.

VARSITY MAKES PLAYOFFS

The 1982 Varsity Volleyball team went one step further in its quest for a state title. After finishing in 3rd place last year in tough district 13-5A, the Trojans finished as district runners-up and advanced to the regional playoffs this year in District 8-5A.

Trojan Volleyball, this year, was able to bring to Newman Smith a name of respect and fear to opponents. High moments in the season other than reaching the regional playoffs included two victories over cross-town rival R. L. Turner, a victory over eventual district champion South Grand Prairie, and a victory over perennial volleyball power Arlington Bowie.

Despite being a very short team, the girls turned in the best season ever in the history of Newman Smith Volleyball. They also entered the playoffs for the first time ever but were eliminated in the first round by Arlington High. Junior Sharon Mayo was named "Outstanding Defensive Player of District 8-5A" and was also named to the 1st All-District team. Senior Phyllis McBride was named to the 2nd All-District team and senior Barbara Dixon was rewarded with an All-District Honorable Mention.

Head Coach Ruth Stovall and Assistant Coach Barbara Edwards found the team to be an exceptional group of girls. "I received countless compliments on the hustle and the determination of my 'little' girls," commented Coach Stovall. With a solid nucleus returning next year, the Trojans should be expected to once again finish high in the district standings and perhaps reach the final step towards the state title.

TROJANS CAN'T BE BEAT

After a disappointing season last year, the 1982-83 "Hustling Trojan" team rebounded this year by remarkably setting 8 new school records, including a seven game winning streak prior to the district race, to help the team finish the season with a very improved and impressive record of 18-13.

Head Coach Jeff Foster, with the assistance of Coach Ron Hargrove, was able to overcome the obvious weaknesses in size and quickness by stressing the importance of aggressiveness, shooting, team concept, and good hustle with the team.

The "Hustling Trojans" opened the season by defeating Lewisville, Lakeview Centennial, Burleson and then, by taking 1st place in the Grapevine Tourney, the team was able to boast an undefeated 7-0 record at they entered the annual C-FB Classic. The team finally fell into reality as they were only able to capture a consolation championship at the tourney.

The district race provided the Trojans with a "very competitive schedule" as witnessed by Coach Foster. The Trojans were able to split district games with Grand Prairie, South Grand Prairie, Duncanville, Irving-Nimitz and continued to dominate high school basketball in Carrollton by twice defeating crosstown rival R. L. Turner. The team was unable, however, to tally any victories over eventual District 8-5A playoff representatives Irving High and undefeated powerhouse Irving-MacArthur. The Trojans ended the season tied for 5th place in the final district standings. The team was able, however, to triple its number of victories over last season's record — "a great team accomplishment."

Outstanding team members included seniors Mike McGregor, Brad Davidson, David Steely, Greg Davis, Bill Gallina, and Hal Mayo who provided the team with good leadership as well as strong enthusiasm. McGregor, Davidson, and Steely received All-District Honorable Mention for their efforts throughout the season.

"LADY TROJANS" OVERCOME

The 1982-83 "Lady Trojan" varsity basketball team was again able to show improvement over the previous year by finishing the year with a 14-13 record. This was the first winning record ever accomplished by a "Lady Trojan" team at Smith and Head Coach JoAnn Spradling expressed her pride with the team.

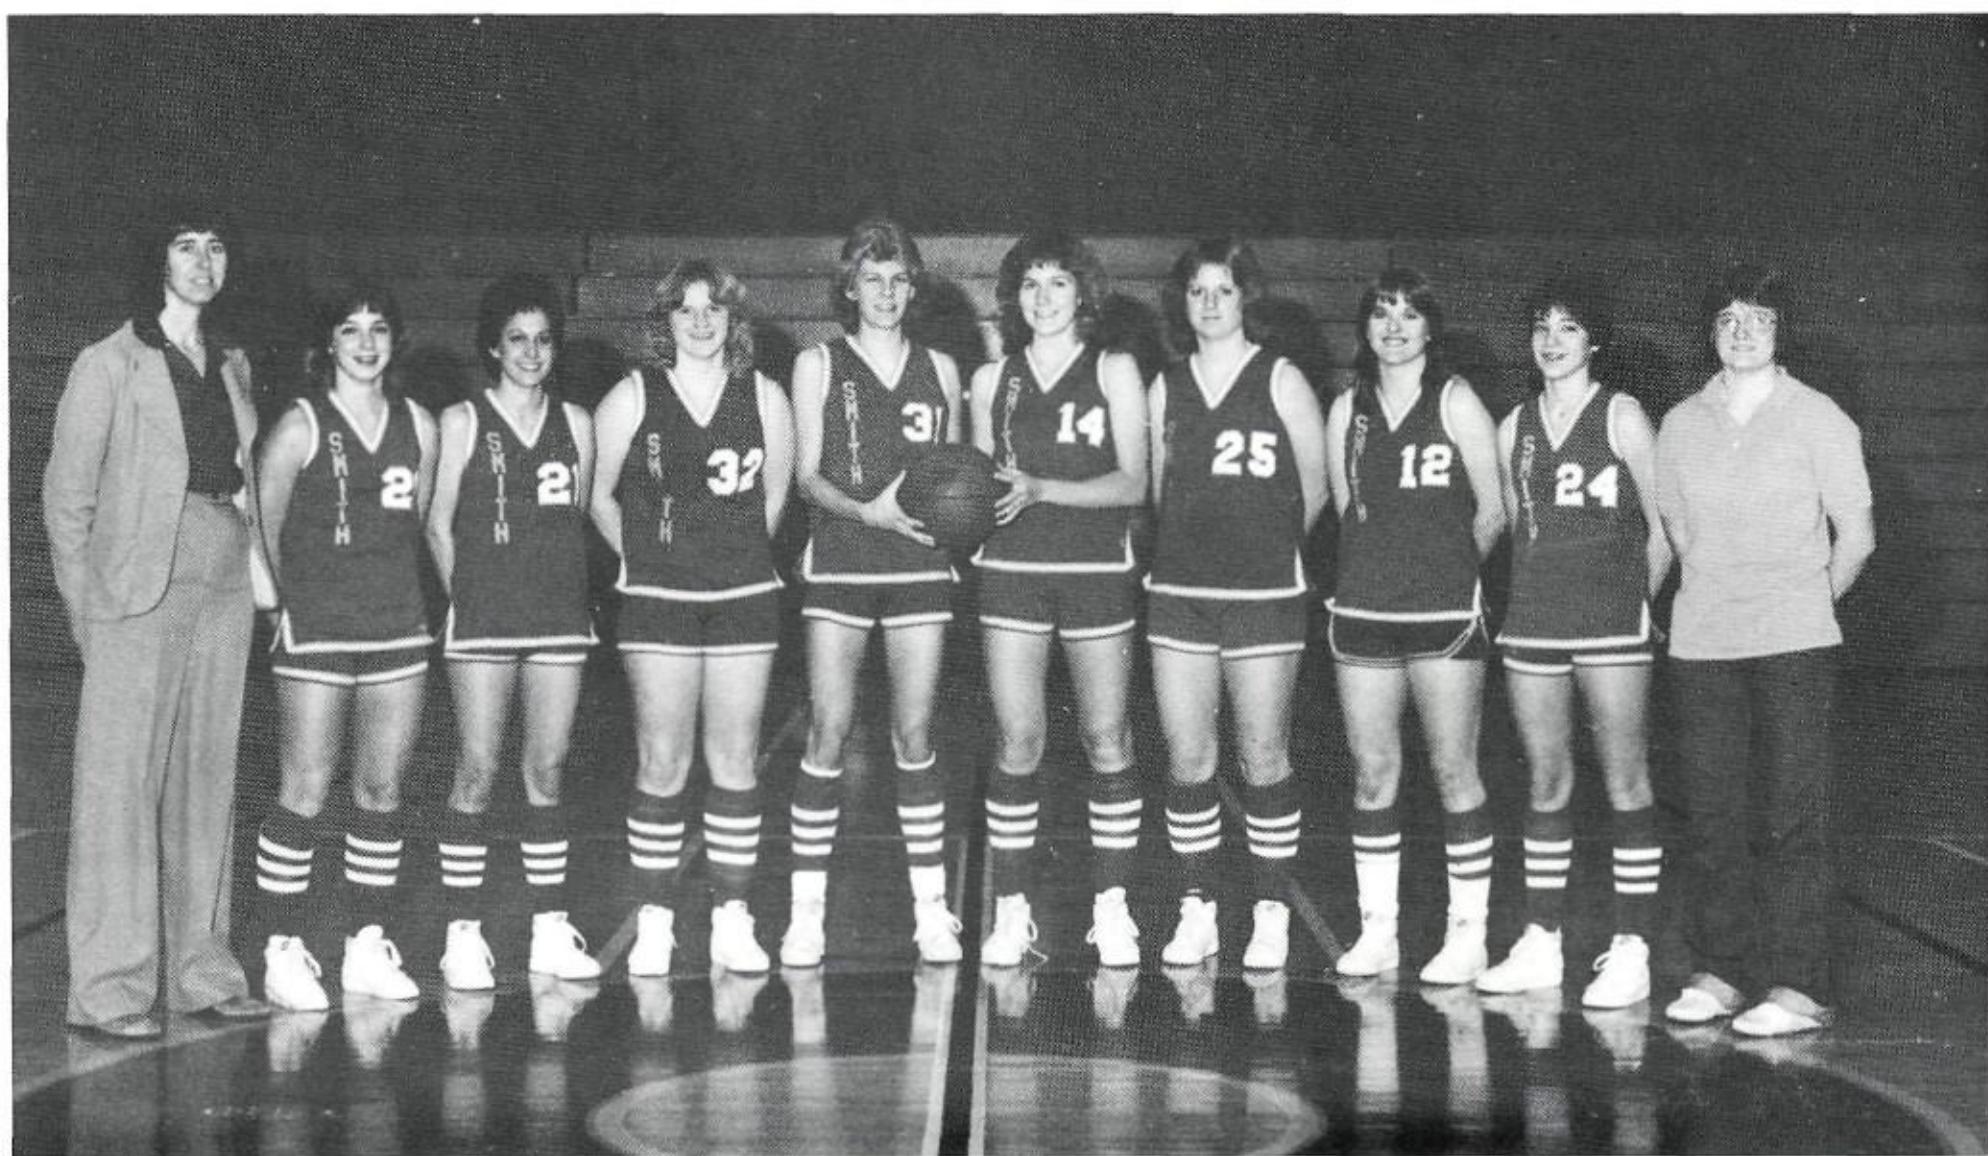

"The girls competed well and would have finished with a better record had they not been hampered with illness and injuries," commented Coach Spradling. Injuries that did affect the team included Jari Wilson with a stress fracture, Merit Ossian with a slight shoulder separation, and several cases of the flu. In addition to these setbacks, the "Lady Trojans" played with a low number of seven players that also set the team back with a disadvantage. Of the seven members, four of the girls were seniors and three of the members were juniors with the tallest girl only standing at 5'10" creating another prominent setback of the team in team height.

Right: Seniors BARBARA DIXON and ROBERTA WILLER bring the ball down court. (J. Sitton)

Despite the setbacks, the "Lady Trojans" rolled up a spotless pre-district game record of 4-0 and were also able to take 2nd place at the Greenville Varsity Tournament and take 1st place in the Carrollton Varsity Tournament. The district race proved to be very difficult for the ill-ridden "Lady Trojans" as they were able to defeat only R. L. Turner in the first half of district play. The second half of play looked more promising for the team as they defeated R. L. Turner, Grand Prairie, and South Grand Prairie.

"We enjoyed playing together. We knew we had a wide variety of talent so we had to play together to help each other out. We did what we had to do," commented Roberta Willer. The realization of the team's disadvantages by each member enabled the team to counter with an inspiring advantage: strong team unity. With total team cooperation and enthusiasm, all seven members contributed an important role in the team's success.

VARSITY TENNIS WINS 8-5A

With the conclusion to this year's season, the Varsity Tennis team was able to give Newman Smith its first tennis district championship.

The team opened district play in the fall with a tie against Irving MacArthur. However, because of the number of sets won by Smith, the match was given to Smith. The team rolled through district competition undefeated.

The double's team of Julie Hrebec and Patty Burbridge compiled a record of 48 wins and 2 losses as they won Smith's first individual district and regional titles. They finished 3rd in state competition at Austin.

After winning the first tennis tournament ever at Irving, the team made a mark for itself in Smith athletics. Coach Victor Chaccia commented, "The team was the best group of individuals I have had the privilege of coaching."

WRESTLING REACHES STATE

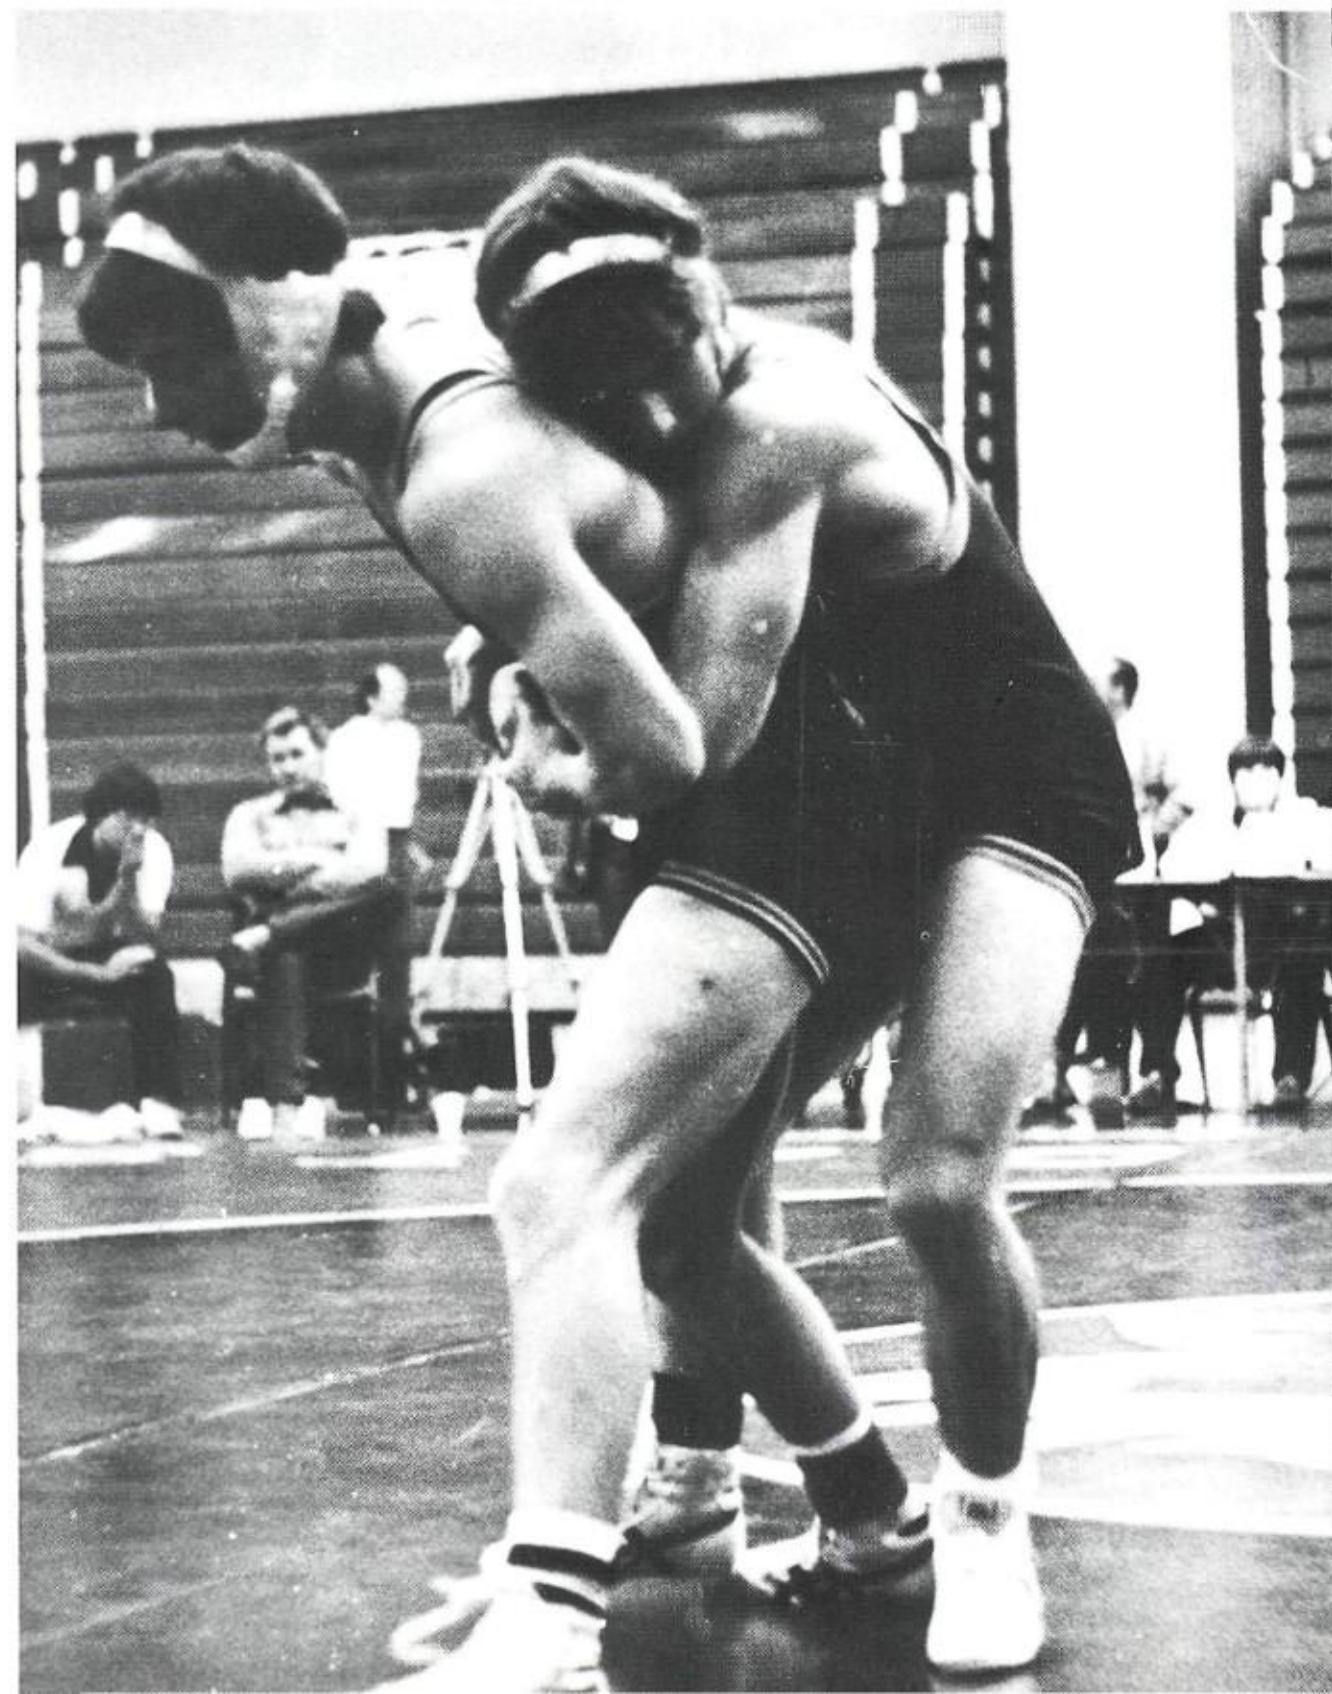

It was once again a year of sports dominated by the varsity wrestling team. The team qualified for state competition for the sixth time in the team's short six-year history.

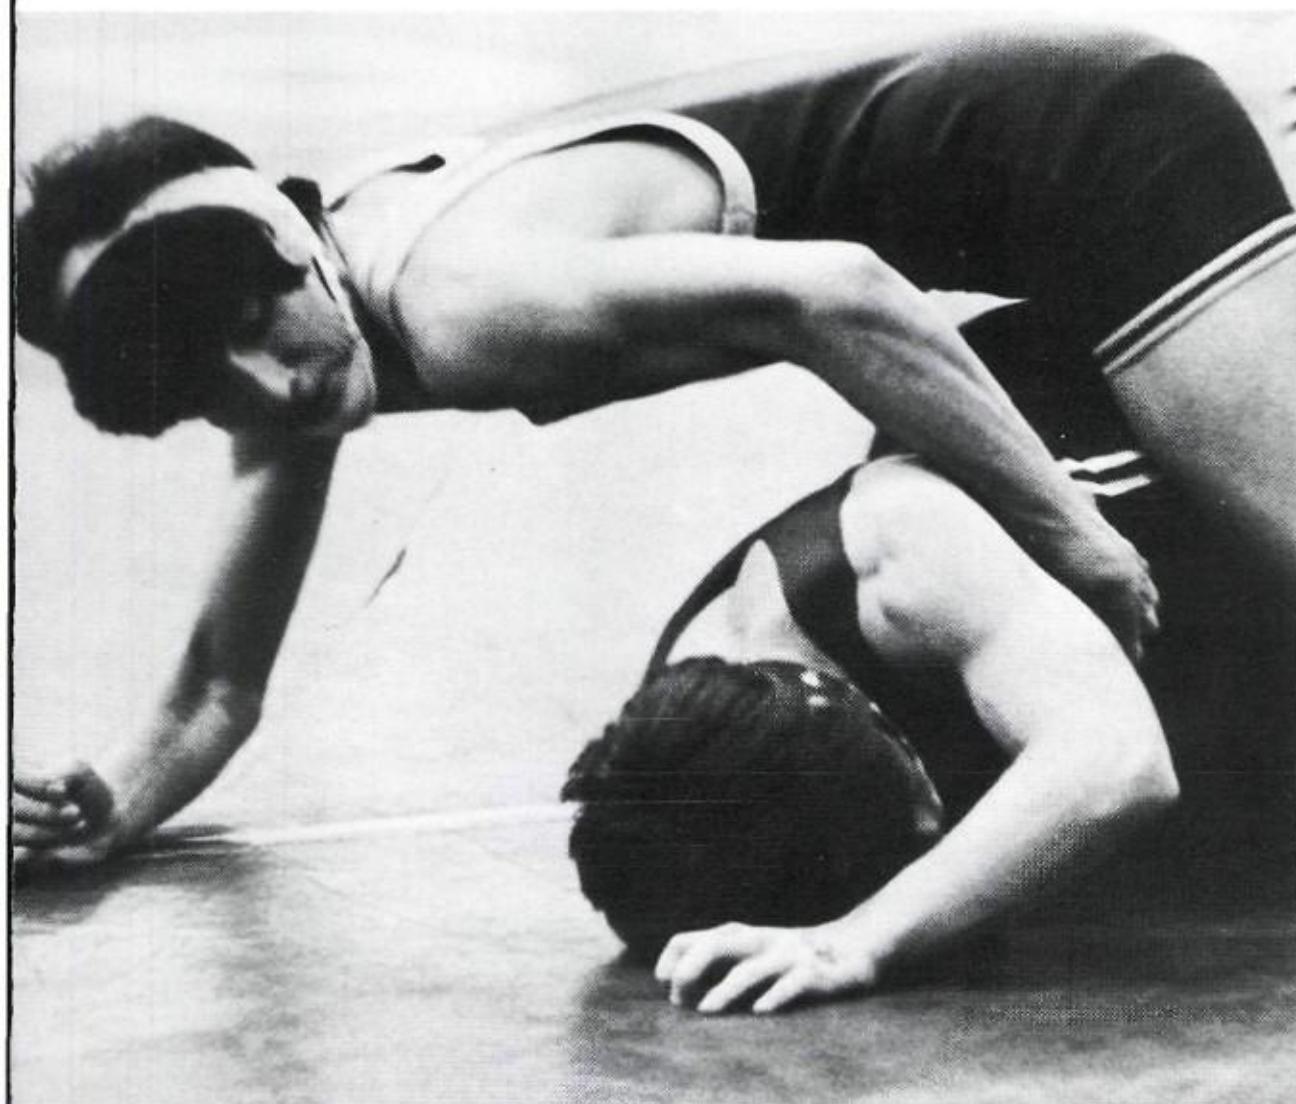

This year senior Darin Smith took 1st place in state competition in the 179 lb. category and senior David Kelly took 2nd place in the 115 lb. weight category. Senior Pat McMullen and sophomores Leif Fuhrman and Rex Roberts also qualified for state competition with Rex participating as Region III champion in his weight class. The team placed 7th overall in state and 3rd in Region III competition.

The team did well in major tourneys around the area by placing 1st in the Equitable of Iowa tourney in which 14 teams competed, 1st in the Lake Highlands tourney in which 28 teams competed, and 2nd in the R. L. Turner Christmas tourney in which 26 teams competed. Among other exceptional successes during the season, victories over perennial power teams such as St. Marks, Lake Highlands, and Irving MacArthur highlighted the season and gave the team the confidence needed to reach state level competition.

Despite a low number of upperclassmen, few returning lettermen, and some minor injuries, the team was again able to match past performances with the talented coaching of Dennis Hutcherson who experienced the "most fun I had coaching in a good number of years."

INJURIES HURT SEASON

The Cross Country teams had a struggling season due to injuries. The team had many strengths, even though injuries proved to be a big factor to the outcome of the season. With returning lettermen on both teams, experience was definitely a strength.

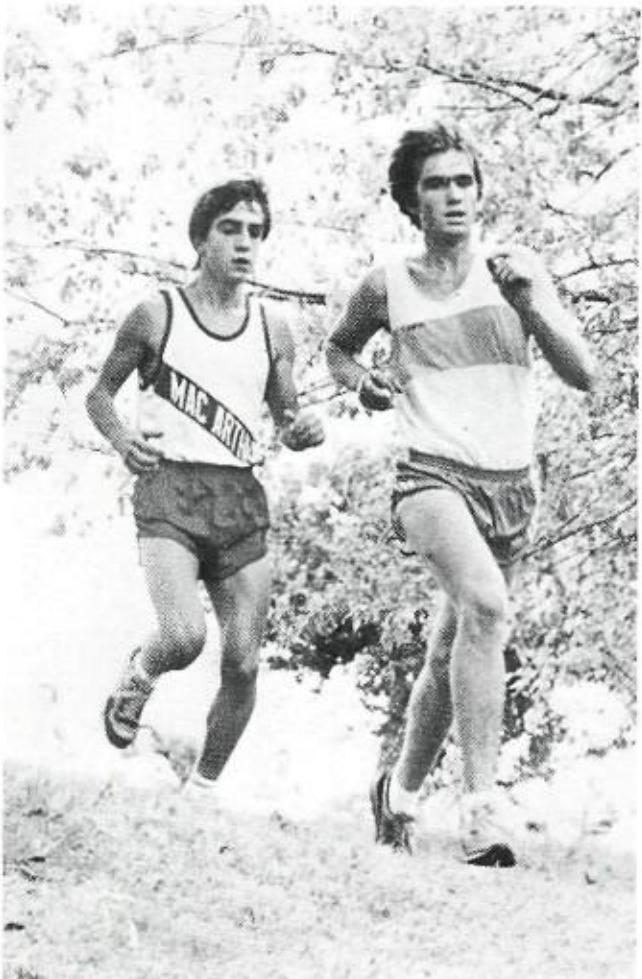

The Girls Cross Country team won second at the Mountainview Cross Country Meet, and also won second at the Duncanville Cross Country Meet. The Varsity boys Cross Country team won third at the Mountainside Cross Country Meet. Outstanding boy runners were Tim Maxwell, Tahir Walji, and Alex Gonzales. Outstanding girl runners were Jodie DeWitt, Chris Pedersen, Amanda Zapata, and Lisa Funk.

Injuries hurt the two teams in district. Two starting Varsity girls, Jodie Dewitt and Michele McKenzie, and one starting Varsity boy, Tim Maxwell, did not run the district meet because of injuries. "I feel that injuries hurt us and cost us from winning the girls district and at least second for the boys," said Coach Mike Stewart.

The Girls Cross Country team placed fourth in district and the Boys Cross Country team placed fourth in district. Senior Amanda Zapata placed second in district which qualified her to go to Regionals. "Taking the injuries into consideration, we had a successful season with our runners," said Coach Mike Stewart.

COMPETITIVE TEAM IMPROVES

Under the coaching of Don Burrell, the Varsity Boys Soccer team continued to improve their abilities once again this year as the team consisted of all underclassmen and one senior. Despite some bad breaks, the team was able to pull out two victories during the season including a 4-3 win over Lakeview Centennial and a 1-0 win over Irving Nimitz.

The team was blessed with talent at several positions and particular stand-outs included goalkeeper Derek Shipman, forwards Ray Aronowitz and Yong Song, and defensive specialists Joe White, Alan Heath, and Steve Campbell. A sprained ankle injury to Steve was a costly one as he was hurt during a warm-up prior to a play-off game with R.L. Turner. The team was defeated by the Lions 0-3 and ended the season on a low note.

The team was, however, "very competitive" according to Coach Burrell and "a few breaks could have given the team a winning season."

"The team was very young, so I'm looking forward to next year."

GIRLS IN POSTSEASON PLAY

As expected by Head Coach Susan Seibel, this year's varsity girls' soccer team finished with a tremendous finale to their exceptional season.

Despite finishing the year with a district record of 6-4, and only boasting a title of runner-up in the district standings, the girls' team was able to find a place in the post-season play-off as District 8-5A's second representative. The girls' earned a spot against the North Mesquite Stallions in a bi-district play-off game, but were unable to keep their winning ways rolling as they were eliminated by the Stallions in a 4-1 loss. However, the team's trip to the play-offs included a few impressive victories such as a 5-0 shut-out of Grand Prairie and a 9-1 thrashing of Irving Nimitz. The team lost its chance of a district championship in the district's final play-off game against Irving MacArthur.

Coach Seibel found her team blessed with "good leadership, good attitudes, a strong defense, and a will to win."

SWIMMING TURNS AROUND

The Varsity swim teams had another victorious season. The team's final record was 8-2. The lady swimmers were 2nd in district, 4th at regional meet, and 18th at state meet. The boys were 3rd at district and 17th at regional meet. The only injury this season was a head injury to Tami Van Gulp from a diving accident.

Individual girls honors this season were . . .

Tami Eaton: regional record in butterfly, 2nd at state meet, school records in butterfly, individual medley, and freestyle. Paige Eaton: school record in breast stroke, and 500 freestyle. Tami

Todd Brooker placed 4th in the district tourney and missed regional competition. The team overall placed 2nd in the Mesquite Invitational and in the District tourney.

TEAM REACHES PLAYOFFS

The regular season play of the Varsity Baseball team once again ended in success for the team and the school. The team finished their 7th consecutive winning season as they also made a third trip to the post-season playoffs.

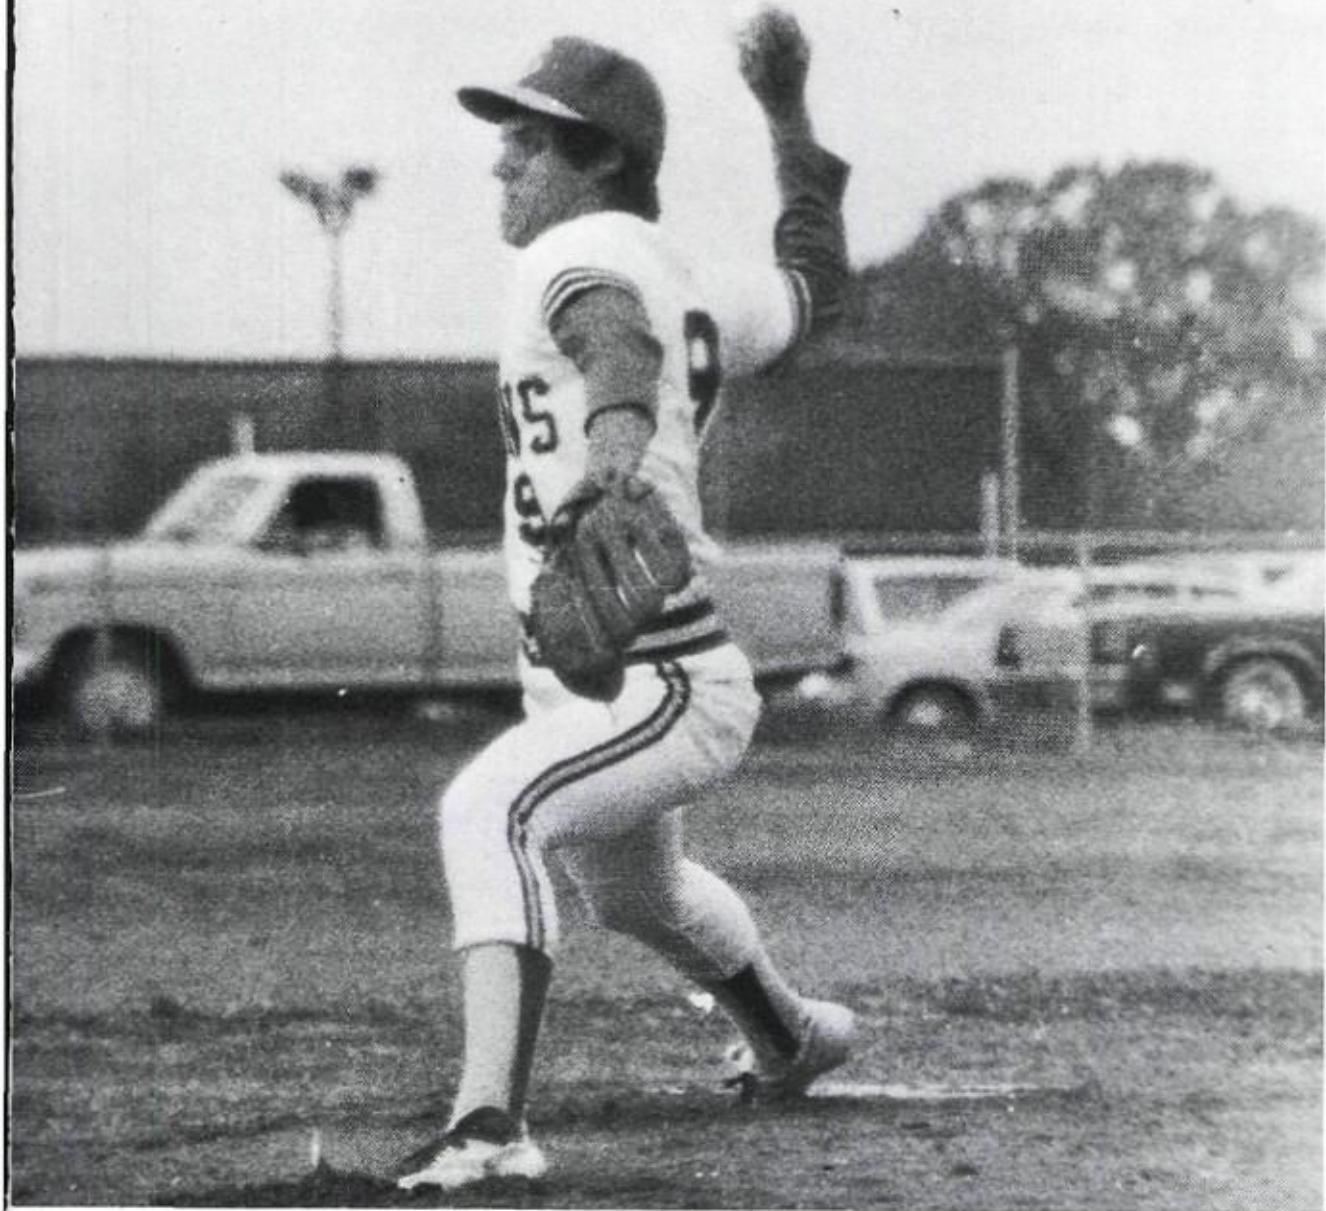

After reaching the bi-district playoffs last year only to lose to Plano, the Trojans posted a 2nd place finish behind Duncanville with a district record of 9-5. The bi-district playoffs placed the Trojans against Richland High from District 7-5A. After playing with much inspiration throughout the year, the Trojans future plans of reaching the state finals were denied as Richland High handed the Trojans two consecutive losses. Baseball coach Lance Brown, who was helped by assistant Coach Fred Howard, found the team to lack in consistency of play. Despite this setback, the team was able to have all-district bestowed upon them. Senior Joe Piazza, junior Billy Murphy and sophomore Donnie Brown were selected for the all-District team. Senior Mark Cornett was chosen for the 2nd All-District team with junior Albert Segura received an honorable mention and Donnie Brown was selected as Sophomore of the year.

BOYS WIN DISTRICT

The Varsity Boys track team won district for the first time in Newman Smith history. Newman Smith won the championship 120-101 with South Grand Prairie trailing. With 46 members, the team broke all of the school records except in pole vault, 800 run, and the 1600 meter relay. Records set by this group are the following: Rodney Hare got 10.65 in the 100 meter dash, 21.73 in the 200 meter dash, 39.6 in the 300 hurdles, and long jump with 23' 10". Robert Hare set the record for the 400 meter dash with a time of 50.45. Robert Smith got 15.54 in the 110 high hurdles. Tim Maxwell set the record for the 1 mile run with the time of 4:38.60. Alex Gonzales got 10:08.1 in the 3200 meter run. The 400 meter relay, which consisted of James Turner, Robert Hare, Robert Smith, and Rodney Hare, set a record of 42.6. Jeff Hakul jumped 6'6" in high jump. Mike Schmitz threw 56' 1½" in the shotput and 172'11" in the discus in the North Garland Raider Relays. Mike Schmitz placed third in the Texas Relays. He is the first Newman Smith student to ever place.

The preseason strengths for the track team were in the shot, discus, hurdles, and the sprint relay. Team captains were Mike Schmitz, Ronnie Taylor and Steve Sheeran. "This was a super season. The super dream came true. Newman Smith reached maturity and became winners. They were super athletes with great talent. This group came together for a common cause," said Head Coach Charles Quisenberry. Assistant coaches were Dennis Lemmons and Mike Stewart.

The Varsity Girls Track team went into the season with 7 returning lettermen and regional and state qualifiers in the shot, discus, and high jump. Although the team was small and did not have enough people in running events, they were extremely strong in field events and led in scoring in nearly every meet after field events.

Kristi Dubes came in first in every meet and Roberta Willer came in first in every meet in high jump. Both girls qualified for Regionals. Robert Willer jumped 5 foot 7 inches in high jump. Kristi Dubes threw 123'1" in the discus and 36'1" in the shot. Eva Graves ran a 12.3 in the 100 meter dash. An exceptional meet was the Richardson meet in which the Lady Trojans placed fourth out of 20 teams.

ACTIVE YEAR FOR F.C.A.

The Fellowship of Christian Athletes male and female chapters in Newman Smith were once again two very active groups in school athletics. Members met throughout the year to decide on many fun and exciting events such as camping trips, breakfasts and special dates to attend some professional and college sporting events around Dallas. Members were able to become closer to one another and closer to their Christian beliefs.

J.V. TAKES DISTRICT

With an unpredictable finish for the 1982 season, Coaches Bob Hunnicutt, Gerald Keith, and Jim Gazzillo had good expectations. The team's size, speed, and lack of experienced backs were a weakness in the beginning, but the coaches felt the 17 juniors led the team through the season. The JV finished 1st in district standings with a 7-0 record. The final season record, however was 8-2. Some exceptional games for the team were a close win over Grand Prairie, 15-12, a victory over Duncanville, 18-9, and a shut out of Turner 31-0, with 3 touchdowns by Greg Biasatti, and excellent leadership by David Rice and the whole team. Injuries to Jeff King and Rex Moxley limited the offensive output, but the team still pulled through. Coach Hunnicutt claims this was a very enjoyable season with the best team effort he has ever coached. All three coaches are proud of each player.

J.V. DOES IT AGAIN

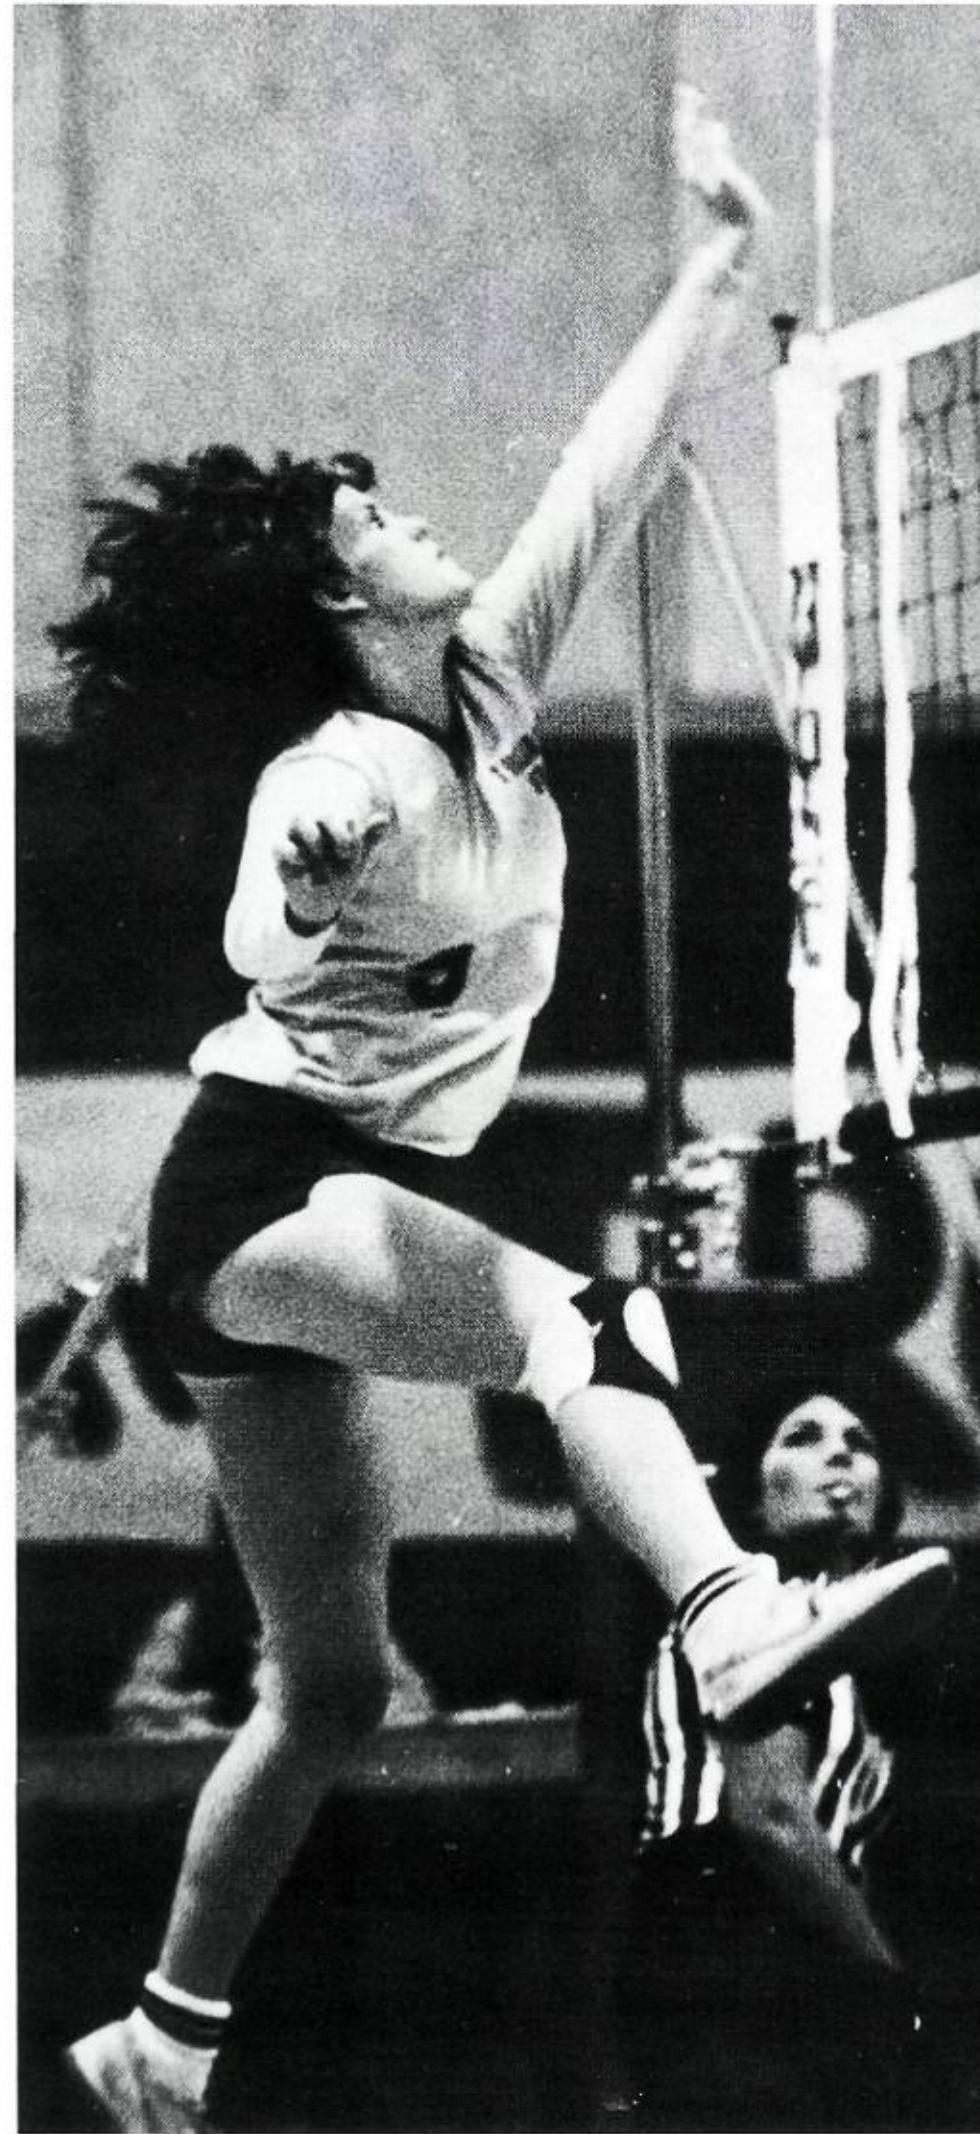

The J.V. Volleyball team started this season with a bang. Under new leadership of Coach Barbara Edwards and also Coach Ruth Stovall. The team worked hard for their district title. The team's district record was 14-0, and the final season record, however, was 31-2.

The J.V. team final district standing was 1st place. This makes two years in a row in this position. All the players gave total effort and competed in many hard games for the title. In the Grand Prairie Tournament they won the 3 games against Arlington to advance to the finals. In the same tourney, they took South Grand Prairie for the Championship. In this tourney, Dena Carlson showed outstanding leadership, while Robin Wendt displayed strong leadership in the Carrollton Farmers Branch Tournament.

The girls played exceptional ball throughout the season making Coach Edwards' first year a great one. Both coaches were very pleased with the excellent turnout of the 1982 season.

JV KEEPS HUSTLING

This year's JV boy's basketball team entered into a very competitive district. It was one which had excellent coaching and a strong traditional background in basketball. Despite these obstacles, the JV team still pulled through with a final record of 5-9. The Trojan team had many strengths that helped them to compete in the new district. Strengths such as size, knowledge of the game, rebounding, and passing ability were a big asset to the team's overall performance. The weaknesses, such as a lack of quickness and weak shooting, were improved throughout the season. The team consisted of 15 members — 14 sophomores and 1 freshman. Full team support was given by all 15 members whenever any five players were on the floor. "There was steady improvement every game. We had very competitive opponents," said Coach Ron Hargrove. Fifteen games were decided by three points or less including five overtimes. The Trojans hung tough in overtime against South Grand Prairie which resulted in a victorious 73-65 win, and also in an overtime with MacArthur with a 51-50 edge. The JV team tied for third in their district. Coach Hargrove is "very optimistic about the future of the players when they compete on the varsity level."

GIRLS KEEP IMPROVING

The girls JV basketball team entered their district against teams that were larger in size and seemed to have a better shooting percentage. But even though the other teams seemed to have advantages over the Trojans, the girls still pulled through with a 11-9 record.

Some of the players on the team had a year's experience prior to the season. Quickness was also shown in the girls' performance. Shortness and weak ball handling skills were primary weaknesses of the team. The team consisted of 8 members — 3 juniors, 5 sophomores.

The Lady Trojans' most difficult opponents proved to be Irving, MacArthur and Duncanville. However, they played very well against Duncanville and MacArthur in their second games against these teams. All members showed great improvement throughout the season. Coach Foylene Spain added that her JV team was "a good group of hustling young ladies who really put their hearts into it."

J.V. GAINS EXPERIENCE

This year's JV boys soccer team was on the move. They had a good season and Coach Don Burrell said that "they gained a lot of experience." The team ended up with a final district record of 4-3, and a final season record of 5-3.

Several outstanding team members were Jay Giglio who proved his talent as a goal-keeper, and Carlos Menendez, Donnie Nickolyn and Johnnie Taylor who did exceptionally well as forwards. Mike Weens, Thad Giddens and David Howard represented Smith as outstanding defenders.

Luckily there were no injuries to hinder the team during the season. Coach Burrell says that "5 or 6 players will have a chance at making varsity next year."

J.V. FACES TOUGH TEAM

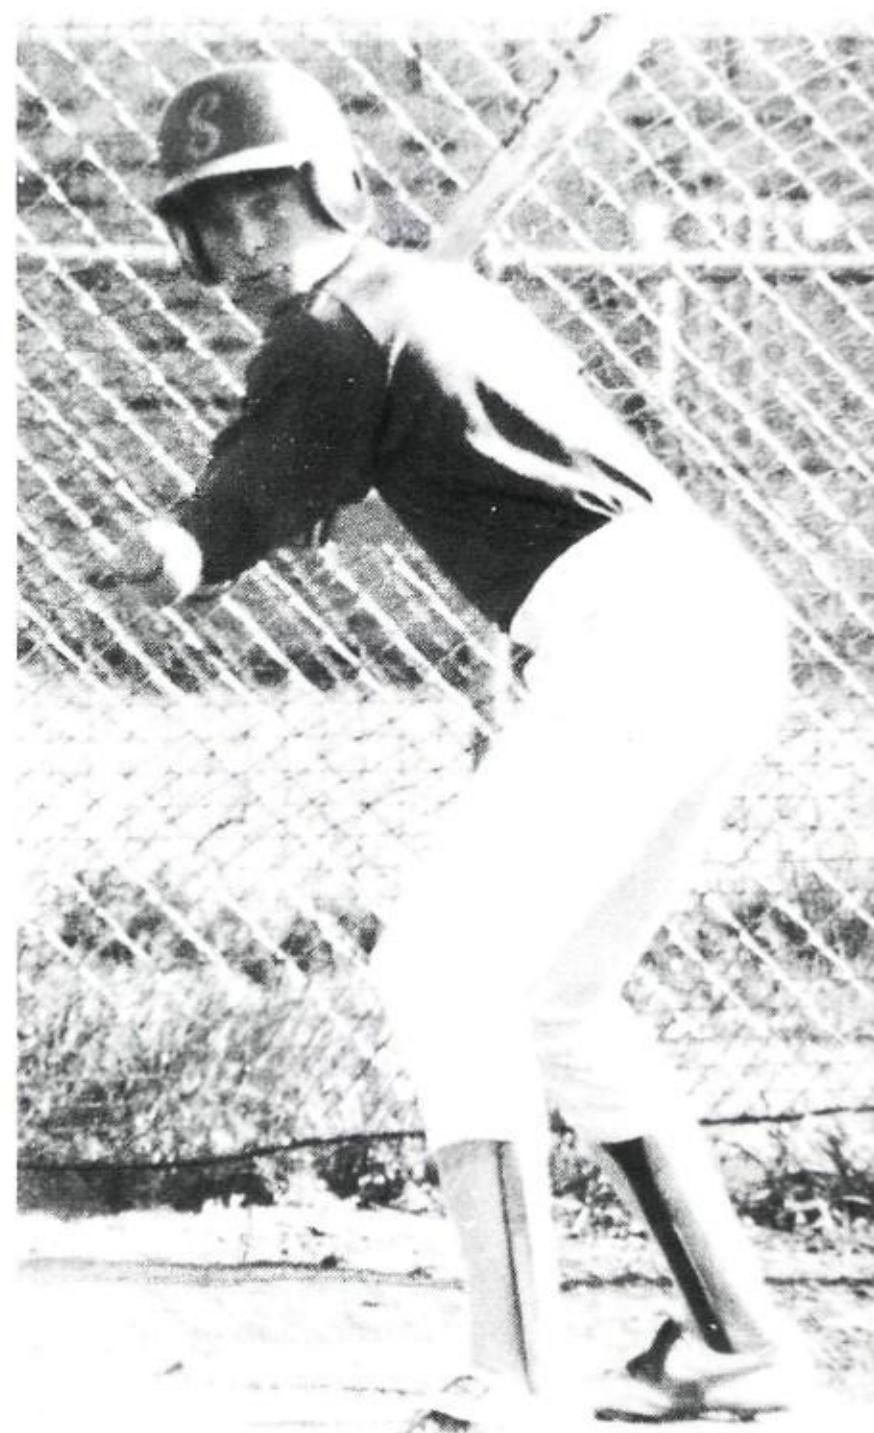

The J.V. Baseball team was once again placed in a position where the competition from opponents was stiff and tough. The team, made up of two juniors and twelve sophomores, managed to fight off their opponents thanks to a much needed strength: experience. Overall the team suffered in the pitching staff because of a lack of pitchers. Outstanding players Paul Carmon and Tim Hall led the team throughout the year and managed to lead the team once again to another winning season. Coach Richard Valenta headed up the team and, through cooperation and hard work, was able to end the year on a positive note for both the team and himself.

JV KEEPS TRYING

With 9 juniors and 8 sophomores, the JV Boys Track Team took eighth place in district. Head Coach Charles Quisenberry says that "The JV was an excellent building program for next year's varsity." Team leaders were Wayne Preston, Rodney Freeman, Ray Dunn, David Rotko and Ricky Pope. Wayne Preston won the district championship in the shot put.

An exceptional meet for the JV team was the Burleson Invitational in which they placed fourth. Assistant coaches were Mike Stewart and Dennis Lemmons. "This team had fun and enjoyed the progress and improvement," said Coach Quisenberry.

Frosh Gain Experience

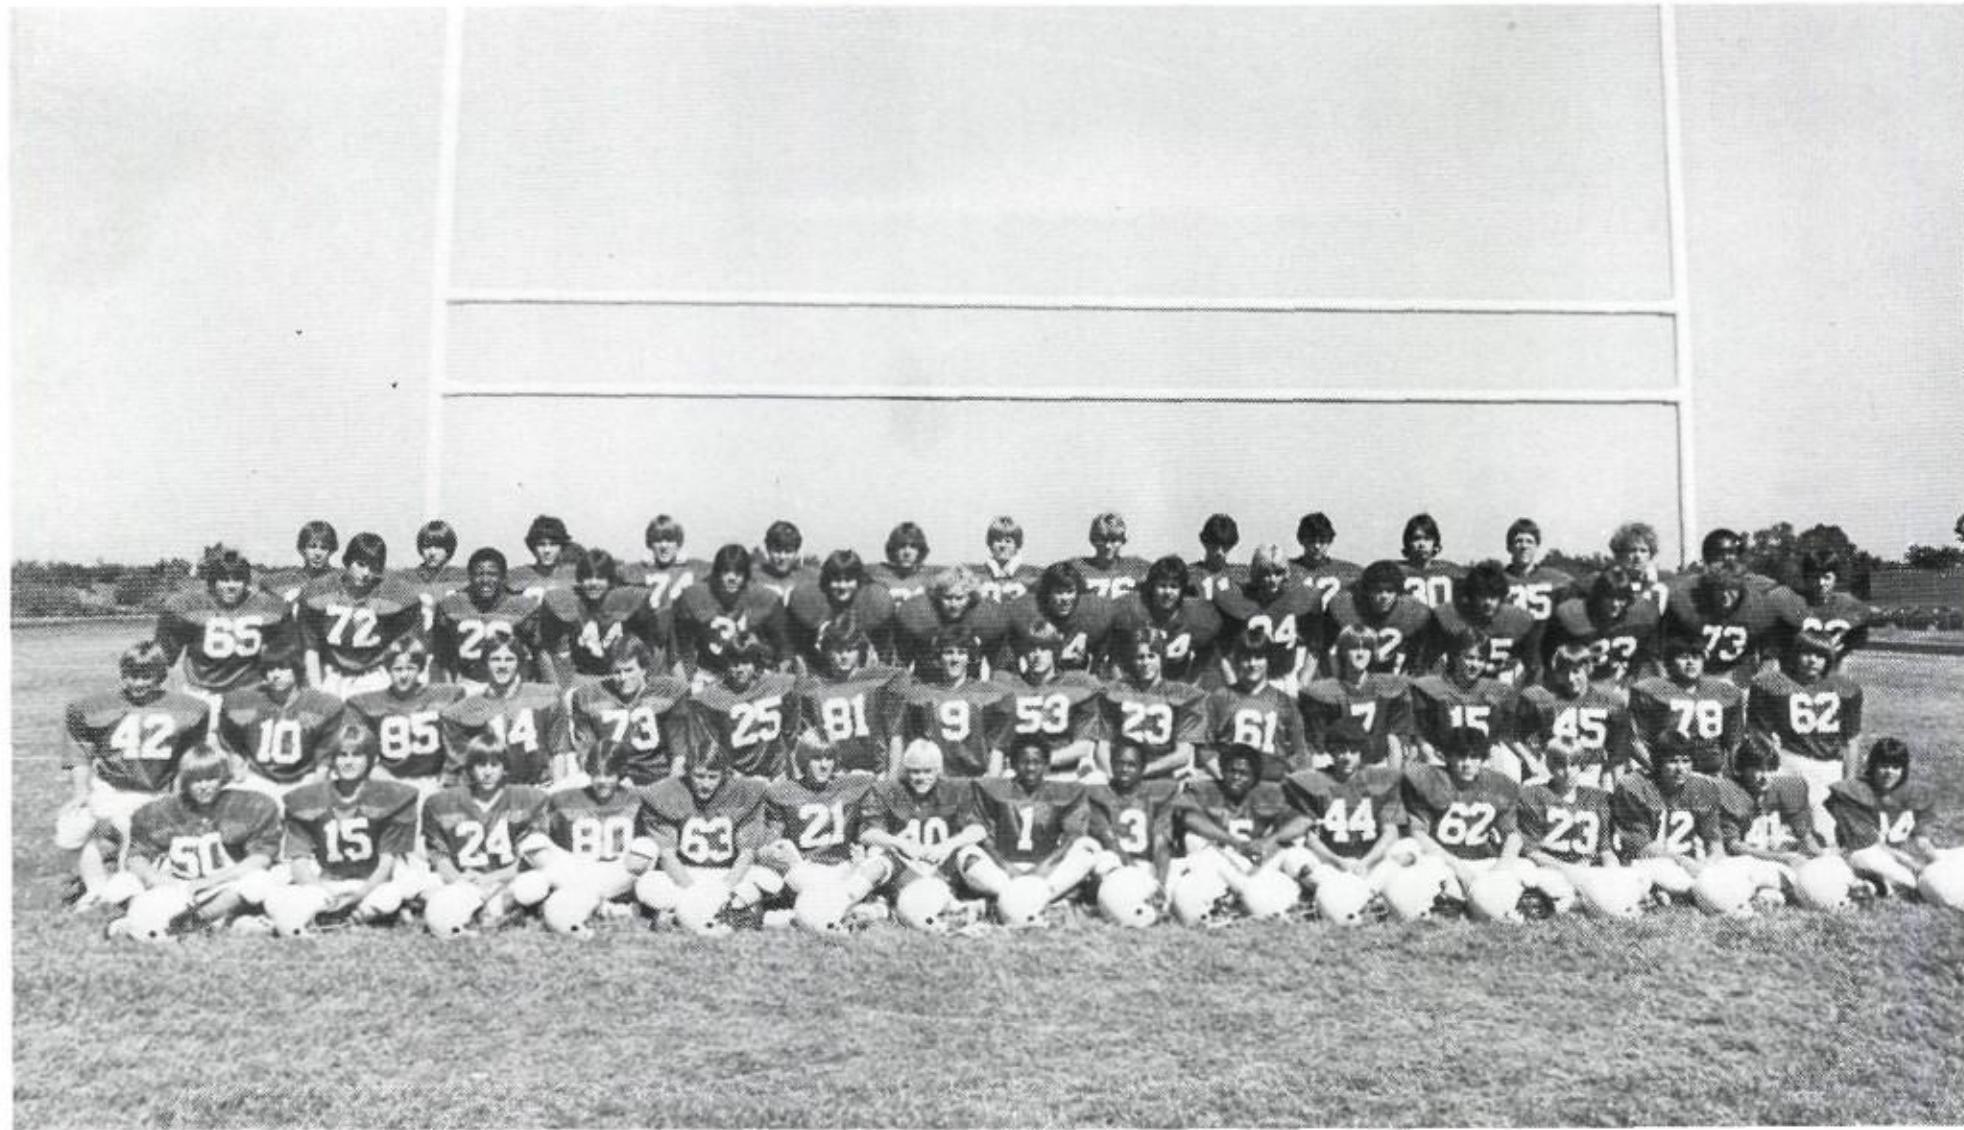

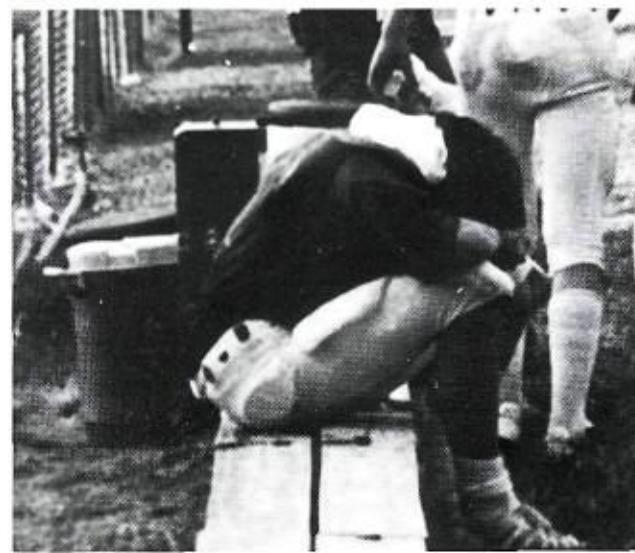

The Freshman Football team overcame their major weakness which was a lack of experience.

They accomplished this through rigorous workouts and playing games against tough opponents like Denton, Lewisville and Plano. This was partly due to team strengths such as good size on the offensive line and strong running backs. Members that improved the most throughout the season were players Derek McDuffie, Chris Burns, Tracey Storey, and Dicky Gomez. This year's team, which consisted of 63 members, was coached by Head Coach Mike Stewart and assistant coaches Fred Howard, Don Burrell and Richard Valenta.

The A-team ended the year with a disappointing record of 2-8. The B-team, however, mirrored an exact opposite record as they achieved a successful 8-2 season. "This freshman team has much ability and will, through hard work, produce several good football players," said Head Coach Mike Stewart.

Third In New District

The Freshman Volleyball team, behind the coaching of Susan Seibel, finished a satisfying third in district. "The team did quite well considering the change in district and the higher level of competition," said Coach Seibel. The team tallied a final season record of 9-5.

The team consisted of 14 members. The team's strengths were the players' enthusiasm, good attitudes, and the desire to be better players. "The team was hard-working, dedicated, and never satisfied. They were always striving for a higher goal," said Coach Seibel. Team captains were Kim Grant and Bonnie Simmons.

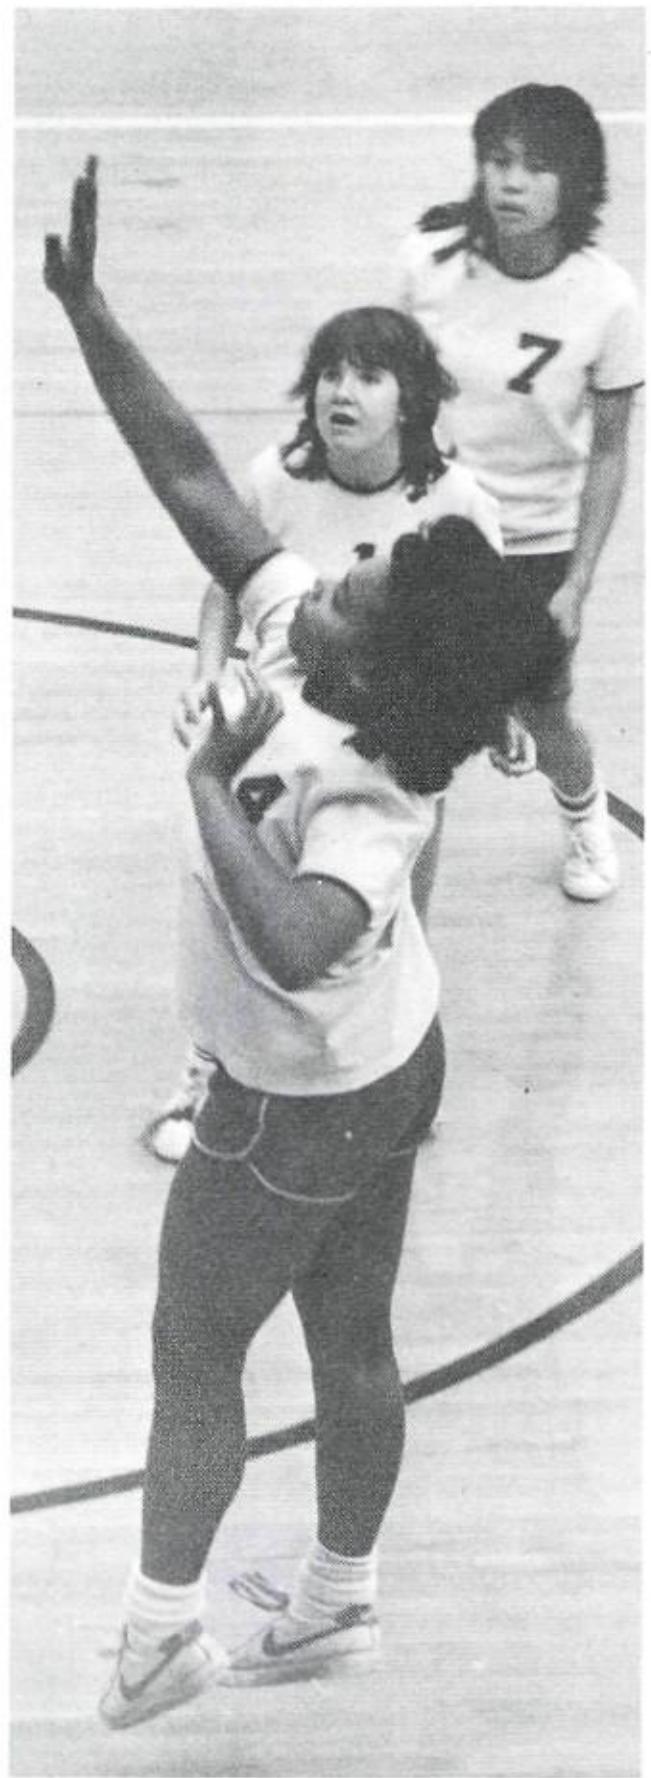

The team's weakness was a lack of playing experience, and not having played together as a team. The team played in a much stronger district this year than ever before.

FRESHMEN HOOP IT UP

With a predicted season finish near the top of district standings, Coach Gerald Keith and Coach Jim Gazzillo anxiously awaited this year's basketball season. Some of the team's leaders and strong players included David Leamy, Neal Cotterill, Keith Holland, and Brad Torsch. Also, Greg Weiss, Todd Paulette, and Kelly Wilson helped the Trojan team through tough games. Some strengths that the team was able to put forth were quickness, size, and the good old "basketball smarts." The team won three trophies at three different tournaments, and won the consolation championship in the district tournament. The coaches feel there is some great varsity potential among the group. They also believe the team will have continuous improvement as it matures.

STUFF FOR TWO

Fast ball handling, dribbling, passing, and above all, shooting, are some of the needed skills for basketball. The freshman girls basketball team had many hard workouts; drilling, running, and building stamina for the coming season.

The freshman girls basketball team was again coached by Ruth Stovall. The girls had some weak basic skill fundamentals and several very short players, but they were very energetic and had good speed. Tina Limsky, team captain, said "the other teams were all pretty big and tried to use that to influence us." Tina also said that Coach Stovall kept their spirits up and was an inspiration that kept them going.

One very exciting game for the girls was a 36-8 win over school rival R. L. Turner. Coach Stovall said the girls improved almost every game and had a very exciting and enjoyable season.

FRESHMEN RUN HARD

With 18 girls on the freshman track team, they were able to have entrants in all events, and even fill all entrees in some events. The team usually had someone place in each event. The girls team placed second and third in their tri-meets and in the last meet, they won first. "These young ladies worked very hard but had a lot of fun at the same time. Overall it was a good season," says Coach Foylene Spain.

The boys track team started the season with a fantastic first place in the first two meets. Outstanding members were Todd Cannon who won first in pole vault in district. Paul Nowathey won fourth in the two mile. Tracey Storey won fourth in the 300 hurdles and in long jump and Dylan Fugitt won third in 800 run. "Overall, this season was a success. This team has much talent in all areas of track," says Coach Mike Stewart.

FEATURE PRESENTATION

SR. YEAR — OUR LAST MOMENTS

After spending eleven years in school that one special year finally came, our senior year. For some it was a dream come true. While for others it was just another year. We gained many new and special friendships as well as losing some. We shared good times as well as bad. We all learned and shared many experiences together.

Our senior year was filled with many activities. We wanted to spend our last moments in high school together. We had Ice Skating parties which gave us a chance to get together and have a good time. A senior night at Six Flags let us turn wild and act like kids again. We had other activities such as; a luncheon, an outing, prom, Powder Puff and many others. These activities gave us a chance to get closer and to be ourselves.

After graduation we will all go our own separate ways. Some of us will work, go to college, or just bum around and take a vacation. We will always be able to look back and be able to remember all those special moments we shared throughout high school. Behind us, we will leave the memories and traditions set by the CLASS OF 83.

OUTSTANDING SENIORS

The Outstanding Senior of each category is chosen by the teacher or teachers directly involved with that category. They are chosen based on ability, integrity, sincerity, effort, leadership, perseverance, willingness to give extra time when needed, and ability to work well with others. These students are chosen to represent Newman Smith and are classified as the best. The following 27 ladies and gentlemen are most assuredly "Stars of '83."

SENIOR OUTING SUCCESSFUL

Each year the senior class goes on a senior outing during the spring. This year's outing was held at the Austin Patio Dude Ranch on May 6. Tickets were sold at $12.50 each and approximately 200 seniors participated in this event. From 4 p.m. to 9 p.m. many activities were held for students to partake in. This included volleyball, horseback riding, horseshoes, paddleboats, and video games. Hayrides were also available to those who didn't mind the itchy hay during the tour of country scenery. At 6 p.m. dinner was served, an all you can eat barbecue which consisted of roastbeef, sausage, potato salad, cole slaw, beans, and toast. The most favorite activity was laying out by the pool, swimming, or just standing around with the hope of not getting thrown in. To end the event with a big splash, a few daring senior guys threw Mt. Studdert in, clothes and all.

SENIOR TALENTS SHINE

That special and recognizable moment finally came. The Senior Awards Assembly recognized the seniors who received scholarships and outstanding award. There was a total of a quarter of a million dollars awarded among the very talented and distinguished students. Following the awards, the time came to take the final walk. The seniors for the last time presented themselves to the student body by walking under the arch and around the gym. Some seniors were happy that the time had finally come and others were sad that they would have to let loose of their high school years.

Afterwards, seniors caravaned over to the Marriott Quorum Hotel for the Senior Luncheon. The lunch was served buffet style with the addition of a few mice to the menu. Pranksters received their laughs from watching the girls panic over the uninvited visitors. Following lunch, a talent show was presented by the seniors. It started off with a piano solo and included vocal solos, a dance, an orchestra duet, a jam session, a humorous short play, and ended with an oratory by Tracey Haley which gave everyone a chance to think who and what kind of people they really were. One of the favorite acts was that of David Garza as he stood in front of the senior class for the last time to sing them a solo. Michael Karmann produced a slide show with memories from our past years. The senior members of the choir ended the luncheon by singing the class song "Up Where We Belong."

A TOUCH OF CLASS FOR PROM

After weeks of planning and preparation, the big night finally had arrived. The ladies have chosen their dresses, styled their hair and rushed to be ready on time for their date. For some, this is the most important date of their life. For others, it is simply another big occasion.

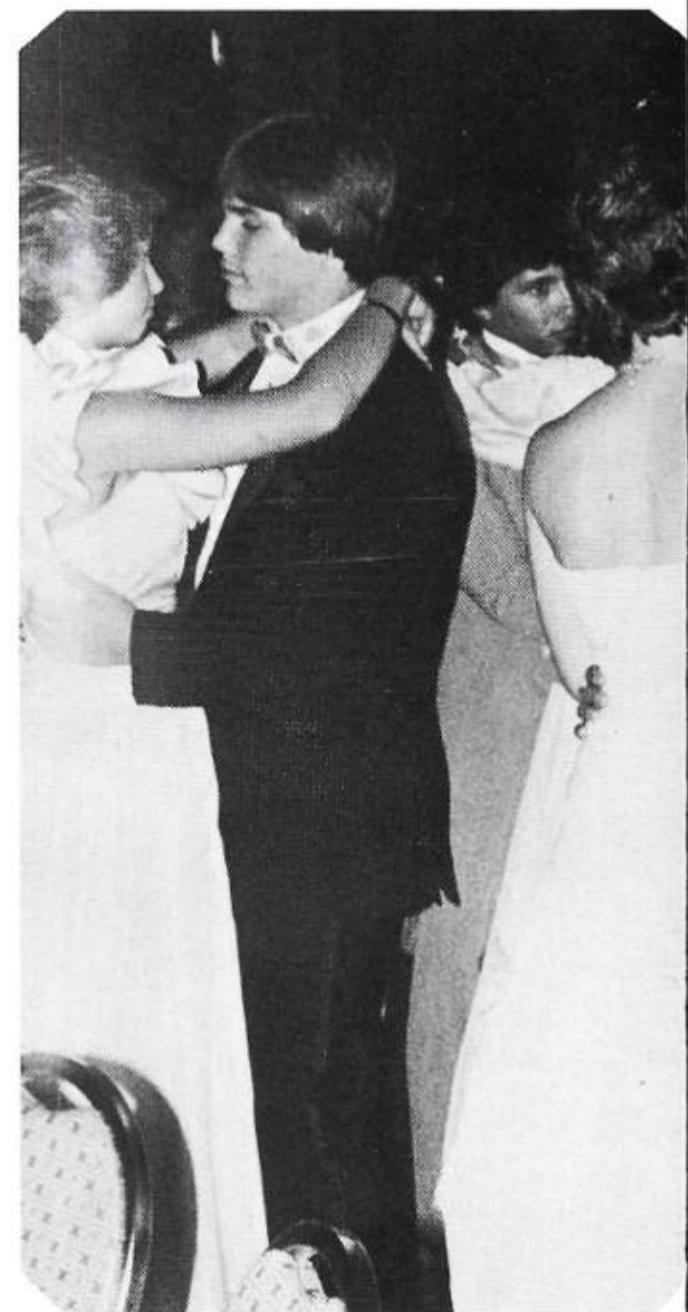

The gentlemen have rented their tuxedos, bought the tickets, and arranged to pick up the corsage. This is their last big chance to show off their dates. This is the last school get-together before graduation. This is the Junior-Senior Prom.

This year's Prom was $18 a ticket, but was well worth the cost. It was held at the Anatole Hotel in Dallas, and the food was excellent. A salad started the meal and prepared us for an excellent filet mignon. The filet was topped off by a baked alaska for dessert. After the meal, the band "Reunion" played a variety of songs to everyone's liking. The music consisted of everything from the Beatles to Melissa Manchester to Michael Jackson.

The turnout was great and every table was filled. The theme of the Prom was "Up Where We Belong" and the table decorations carried out the senior chosen class colors with a centerpiece that consisted of lavender and creme flowers and a big lavender balloon floating up on top of the tables.

After the Prom, only one thing was on everyone's mind: Celebration. People did everything from renting rooms, to renting clubs, to having parties at home. By early morning, only breakfast and sleep was on the agenda. One thing is for sure, the 1983 Prom will hold memories for everyone for a long time.

GRADUATION... FINALLY

Right: JOYCE OBAR and the choir sing "Texas, Our Texas," the state song.

During your whole senior year there is one day everyone looks forward to: Graduation Day. Every year graduation comes about the same time, and people who watch it each year will tell you it's identical, year after year. Graduating seniors will tell you different.

This year's rehearsal was two hours before the actual graduation. We lost time of how many times we were told where to stand, what time to be there, and what to do. We all filed into the auditorium by two. Honor graduates were called first then, one at a time, we received our diplomas.

Diplomas are the key to becoming whatever we want. Now we had our keys and simply had to choose which door to open. Many of us will go to college, some will join the armed forces, and still others will stay home and continue to work at his or her present job.

We will remember all the troubles and hassles we went through, all the detentions and all the times we had to go to school early or stay late. Yet, they all seem trivial when we go on stage and receive that piece of paper. One thing we will all agree on: "The class of '83 is loose and they're going to make their mark in the world!"

MR. AND MISS NSHS

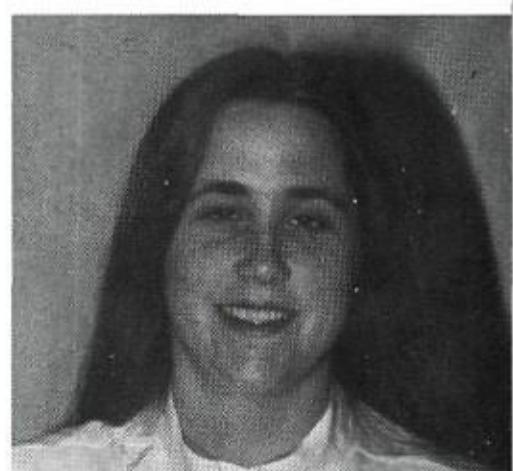

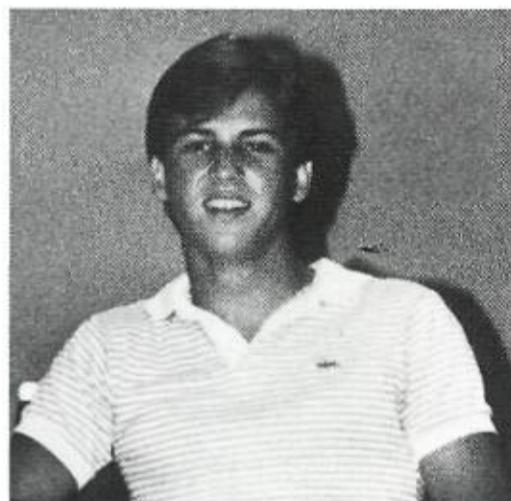

Mr. and Miss NSHS were David Garza and Robin Sheppard. David's service in the Executive Committee helped prove his leadership abilities. He served as president for every year except his freshman year, when he was the vice-president. David was also the editor of the yearbook, and was on staff for 3 years. He received an appointment to the West Point Military Academy where he intends to earn a Bachelor of Science degree. Robin has been at Smith for 5 years, attending 8th through 12th grades. She was a cheerleader for 4 of those years. She was also the 1983 Homecoming Queen and is a member of the Distinguished High School Students of America. She plans to attend Stephen F. Well, we finally made it! It has been four long years, or has it? To most of us, the years have slipped between our fingers. We've shared joys and triumphs as well as sorrows and defeats. When we were underclassmen, we admired and even worshiped seniors. Now that we are seniors, the delusions have been replaced with the responsibilities of oncoming adulthood. One of the major decisions on a senior's mind is whether or not to go to college. Those who do decide to go to college must decide which college to go to, what classes to take, and what activities to join, be it athletics, sororities, or fraternities. The seniors who do not go to college must find a job that will enable them to support themselves. No matter how difficult the choice or how successful the outcome, we will always have our memories to look back upon. Good luck seniors of '83!

PRANKS VS. VANDALISM

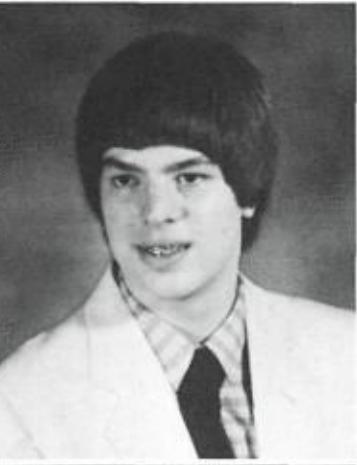

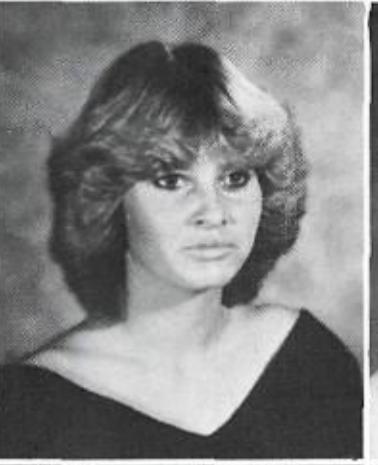

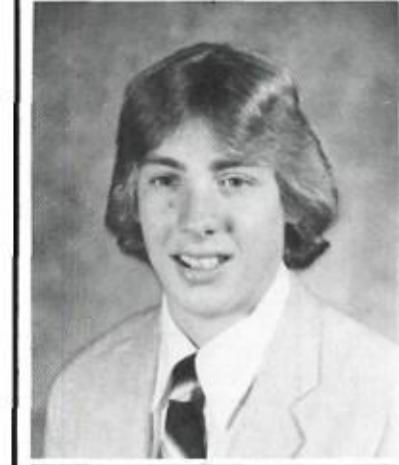

What would we do without shoe polish? Without it, the car washes would probably go bankrupt, as would the shoe polish companies. It became a Smith tradition to shoe polish cars before every football game. In addition to shoe polishing cars, people had the odd notion that trees had runny noses, and therefore they felt obligated to cover them with large amounts of toilet paper. Unfortunately some of these seemingly harmless pranks are in reality vandalism. Trenching lawns, stealing signs, and defacing public property put an abrupt end to the fun and games.

Enthusiasm and involvement were the two main qualities of the Senior Executive Committee, evident by the large turn out of members. The main topics on the agenda were the plans for Sr. Activities. The first Ice Skating in November had such a big turn out it enabled them to plan another one in April. For their senior outing they chose the Austin Patio Dude Ranch. A senior night at Six Flags was also planned. Many hours were spent arranging the luncheon, at the Marriott Quorum. Choosing the class color and flowers were on the agenda. Fund raisers consisted of selling M&M's and magazines. They also had two successful bake sales, and sponsored the homecoming dance. As a group, we proved we were the best that could be, very simply, the Class of '83.

Executive members vote, YES to have another Ice Skating party. (R. Jones)

PLANS FILL YEAR

1983 proved to be a very busy year for most juniors. They became increasingly less concerned with fun and games and began to focus on their futures. They started looking at colleges as well as choosing careers, and began taking college entrance exams. For some juniors, the year provided a chance to buckle down and get serious about their work. Although little time was left for entertainment, the class of '84 managed to stay alive in the spirit department. They remained avid supporters and members of the various extracurricular clubs and committees. Their junior year was highlighted by the annual powderpuff game, senior ring delivery, planning the 1983 prom, and the prospect of finally being seniors. The year left them with many fond memories as well as many great hopes for their futures.

JR. EXEC. RAISES MONEY

President DENISE TACKETT tries to get cooperation from the other Executive Committee at an early morning meeting. (R. Tate)

TAE KIM tries to stay awake during an early morning meeting. (R. Tate)

The Juniors pulled through and had a large turn out on their committee. Their biggest concern for the year was raising money for the prom. They had many fund raisers which enabled them to have the dinner-dance prom at the Anatole.

They sponsored two very successful dances; the Beach Bash and the Sadie Hawkins dance. They also won the magazine sales against the Seniors. To add to their fund raisers they sold candy and had two bake sales. The Junior class was also responsible for powder puff which turned out to be a big success.

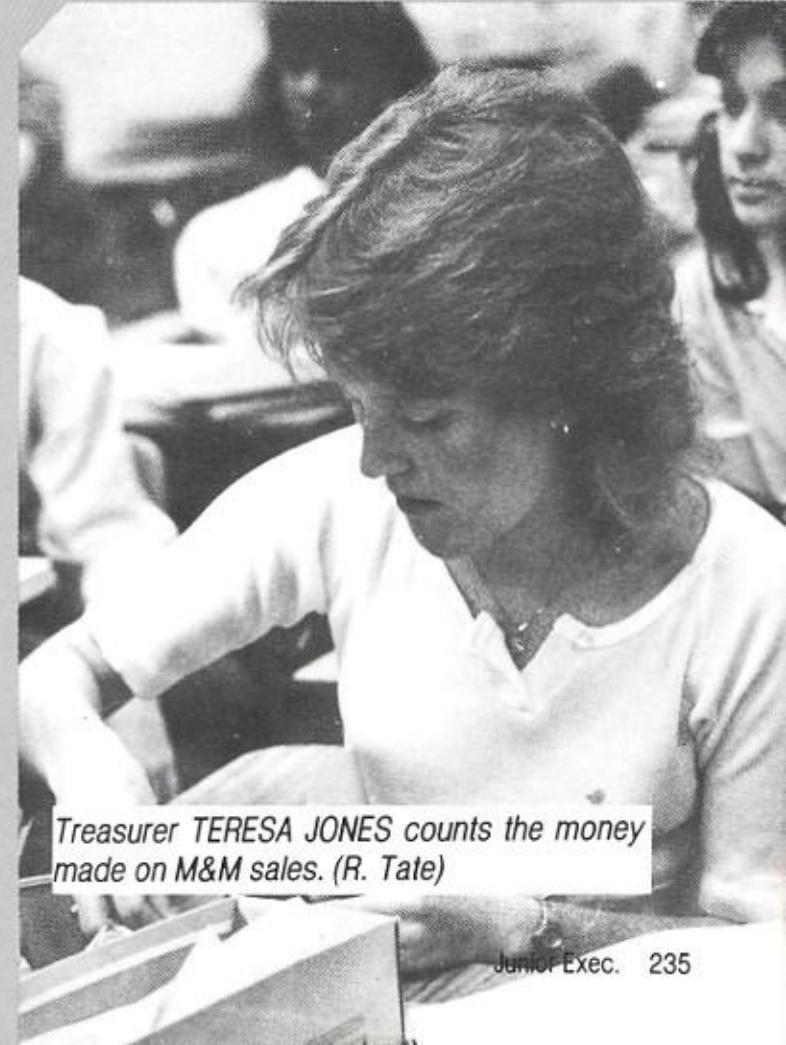

The Executive Committee led their class, worked hard and had a good attitude which helped make the Juniors have a great and successful year.

THEY HAD THE BEAT

Why anyone would want to wrap Mr. Towers, sophomore counselor, as shown above is beyond comprehension. Unless, of course, the circumstances are taken into consideration. Such circumstances as pep rally competition and sophomore competitors. After thinking about it, it all becomes clear. The sophomores participated with such vitality in all events, that they soon became noted as the most spirited class in the school. And with good reason, considering that they won the spirit stick at 3 out of 6 pep rallies. The sophomores excelled in all they were involved in, which was as much as they had time for. There were 18 sophomore Troyanns, 2 Troyann managers, 10 sophomore cheerleaders, band members, sophomore executive committee members, and innumerable sophomore athletes. The sophomores were able to make 1983 a great year and hope to do the same for the rest of their years at Newman Smith.

The Sophomore Executive Committee spent most of the year building their finances through fundraisers. Homecoming mum sales turned out to be one of their most successful money-making projects. They helped promote TROJAN PRIDE by selling spirit items during football season. Later in the year, they sold green Trojan litter baskets. They sponsored two successful dances and donated $100 towards the purchase of a new sound system for the boy's gym. The committee was very strong because of its many dedicated members. Class President, Suzanne Davenport, felt the class was "a very spirited and outgoing class" and that "the fact that we won several spirit sticks at the pep rallies shows that the class of '85 definitely has TROJAN PRIDE."

Exec members listen to Mrs. Jolly's ideas for new projects. (R. Jones)

A FRESHMAN'S FIRST DAY

An average freshman walks in the front doors of Newman Smith for the first time. He looks around him, dazzled by the huge amounts of people milling around. He looks at his crumpled schedule and begins his search for his first period class. As the final bell approaches, he feels a sense of panic. All of the halls look the same and the school takes on the appearance of a great maze. With a sigh of relief, he finally walks into the right classroom. He takes a seat, looks around at all of the strange faces, and says, "so this is high school."

Mitch Baranowski is a prime example of an academically oriented athlete. Mitch is a member of the swim team and specializes in the 100-yard backstroke and 200-yard freestyle. Mitch has been on swim teams for eight years and enjoys competing. He enjoys meeting people and traveling to surrounding cities for meets. Mitch has an 'A' average and is involved in speech and drama. What are his hobbies? He collects comic books! He is one kid who's not "all wet."

SHAWNA . . .

Shawna Fields is a prime example of beauty and brains. Shawna has been in three beauty contests, the Mini Miss Dallas, which she won, the Miss Jr. Country Fair, and the Miss Jr. Dallas, both of which she placed first runner up. Shawna works just as diligently to keep up her "A" average. Shawna is very interested in speech and drama and participated in "The Fiddler On The Roof." Shawna commented that she enjoys the opportunities and the variety of activities offered at school.

FROSH WORK WELL WITH FEW

MORI MELKUS and SHAWNA FIELDS discuss plans for class party. (R. Tate)

Dr. Lassiter reads aloud the class's latest budget report. (R. Tate)

The Freshman Executive Committee had very few members, but that did not stop them from leading their class through a good year. They met every Wednesday to make plans for the year. They participated in some profitable money-making projects to raise finances for their class. They sold ornaments during Christmas, chocolate chip cookies in March, and M&M's later in the year. They also planned a party for the Frosh class in May. President, DeLynn Biggs, felt the committee could have done more with more class participation, but also felt that the small committee worked out well and got the class of '86 off to a good start.

PRODUCTION STAFF

NSHS WELCOMES DR. BLANTON

Dr. Charles Blanton, the newest and possibly most welcome addition to the Newman Smith administrative staff, got off to a great start this year by establishing rapport with the other members of the administration and faculty, as well as the student body. This was an easy task for a man with such a dynamic personality. Although his responsibilities as principal kept him busy nearly every minute of the day, he tried to find time to be around the students. He could often be found in the halls greeting students as they went to class. The one word used most to describe his personality was "neat." And he truly is a neat person. His genuine enthusiasm and spirit for Newman Smith helped boost "Trojan Pride" to an all-time high. His performances at pep rallies gave real insight into his fired-up attitude towards being a part of Newman Smith. He would like to make NSHS, in years to come, identifiable as number one in every possible realm. One indication of this is the District 13-5A

Sportsmanship Trophy that sits in his office. High at the top of it rests a button that says simply "Trojan Pride." It seems incredibly out of place, yet remarkably appropriate at the zenith of that massive trophy. On his bookshelves right along with all of his "important stuff" sit old copies of the Iliad. When asked what his goal is, he replied that he most wants to rid Smith of apathy. He feels that once this great obstacle is overcome, the other problems that students face will be much easier to accept and deal with. He will accomplish this goal because he is the type of person who is willing to be innovative in order to get results. And for times when innovation won't do the job, a gold four leaf clover hangs above the door in his office. Maybe it is a sign of a bright future for him and all of the other people who make up Newman Smith High School.

THEY DO IT ALL FOR YOU

Mrs. Lora Folsom rejoined the administration this year, but this time as the assistant principal in charge of instruction. With this new job she took on many new responsibilities. She handled the budget, scheduling, data services, substitute teachers, and student teachers. She managed to get into the swing early and take care of business the entire year. Mr. Ron Studdert remained the assistant principal in charge of pupil personal services. He took charge of all U.I.L. organizations, fund raising projects, the Senate, in school suspension, detentions, the activity calendar, early dismissals and lunch passes, public relations, and proof of residency. Mr. Bowlin was in charge of all building maintenance, security, fire drills, some class observations, lockers, and discipline for the 11th grade and half of the 9th grade. Mrs. Watson disciplined the other half of the 9th grade plus all of the 10th grade. She also handled all text books, the teacher duty roster and some class observations.

The Untold Story

Most students and faculty alike would agree that Cheryl Anne Noell is a fun-loving person. Most people do not know just the extent of her craziness. Mrs. Noell likes the fun side of life. She likes to introduce entertaining ideas into serious events. She met her husband in an unusual way. Mr. Noell was a disc jockey at KRLD. Mrs. Noell used to call in her requests nearly every day. After six months of phone conversations, they had their first date. Two years later, they were married. The wedding itself was also unusual. Instead of the customary bride and groom on the wedding cake, Grover and the Cookie Monster presided. When asked if she was accident prone, she nodded vigorously. She commented, "It is my destiny to be accident prone, I'm also allergic to everything." As sponsor of the Woods and Water Club, she has chanced fate often. Once, in the early morning hours, she gracefully fell off a six foot cliff. Although she seems to have a predominantly comical nature, she does, however, have a serious side. She has several personal philosophies. "When you reflect on life, the achievement is not that important; what is important is how you got there. Sometimes people take life too seriously and you have to laugh; it is a way to cope."

TEACHER PET PEEVES

Everybody has at least one pet peeve. Since teachers are people too, (believe it or not) they are thus entitled to their own pet peeves. Student pet peeves are different from those of the teachers. Students are upset by punishment, badgering, and authority. Teachers, on the other hand, are disturbed when they are forced to punish, badger, and use excessive authority on students. It is a vicious circle. When asked what their favorite pet peeves were, some of our teachers responded like this: Mrs. Noell: "Students who spend more time complaining than working." Mr. Hendricks: "Girls who do their nails in class." Mrs. Roy: "Students who ask for a free day." Mr. Hembree: "Cheating." Coach Fife: "People who say 'yea,' 'naw,' 'oh man!' and especially 'My old man/lady.'" Coach Hawkins: "Math and science 'buffs' who don't know who Tip O'Neill is." Knowing some of these teacher pet peeves may come in handy some day, especially when you start to cheat, reach for the nail polish, or complain about unfinished work. Just remember, teachers hold the red pen! (Hint: if ever in Coach Hawkins' government class, just pretend you know who what's his name is!)

Ever wonder what one of his pet peeves could be? (J. Sitton)

TO THE RESCUE . . .

Being a counselor is easy right? Wrong! Not many students realize or appreciate the endless responsibilities and duties that counselors have. Not only do the counselors help students with academic, individual, and group counseling, they organize testing, deal with schedule changes, and countless other tedious jobs. The change of counselors at the second semester added to the confusion. Mrs. Barron, who replaced Mrs. Sitton as senior counselor, took over the responsibilities of helping seniors make important decisions about college, making sure that seniors had enough credits, dealing with college referrals, and recommendations, presenting scholarships, and writing the Senior Scoop. Mr. Barkley remained as the Jr. Counselor and was involved with helping students plan their schedules for college preparation. He was also a SPARK leader. Mr. Towers, sophomore counselor, was involved with the PSAT and other testing. He used the Stanford Achievement Test as an aid for placing students in the proper courses. Mr. Towers was also a SPARK leader. Mrs. Miller, who replaced Mrs. Nance as the freshman counselor acquired the duties of placing students in their required courses and helping them deal with one of their most traumatic years. Mrs. Lackey replaced Mrs. Dophrate as the vocational counselor and placed students in CO-OP programs and Pre Employment labs, as well as helping students who were interested in vocational careers. We salute the counselors for a job well done!

SECRETARIES, LIBRARIANS

The secretaries worked diligently throughout the year keeping up with student attendance. Each grade had a designated office to report to. This benefited the secretaries because it enabled them to work with the same group of students throughout the year. It also gave them a chance to become acquainted with the students. The secretaries commented that the most commonly used absentee excuses are: "My child is sick today," but really they are going shopping or out of town. "I overslept," or "I'm eighteen years old." The secretaries enjoyed working with the students.

The librarians kept busy throughout the year to provide us with large amounts of materials. They kept up with over 17,000 books to choose from including books for recreational reading. Leona Russel along with a new addition to the staff, Marilyn Rose, were the librarian aids. Janet McFarland and Wanda Stauffer were the librarians, with Mrs. Stauffer as the head librarian. The ladies provided us with programs that enabled us to find quick research. Some of the things available were: readers advisory microfiche, copying services, vertical files, periodicals, and reference materials. The library staff was always found available to assist a student or teacher in any area of the media center.

CLASSES FOR THE TAKING

Going to High School is an event in which we all seem to have to encounter.

Passing through High School was an event we all struggled to achieve.

The enjoyment of High School was up to the individual. We were responsible for the outcome of our years spent at Smith.

As we went through the year we were faced with the embarable event of having to take those required classes.

The most common of all was English. Boy did we ever get tired of writing those essays. That good old research paper accounted for those late nights spent at the library. And the night before when we were up till the crack of dawn putting the final copy together. That yellow and black book known as Cliff Notes sure pulled us out of all those times we fell asleep instead of reading those novels. It seemed to be a very popular and hot item during the year.

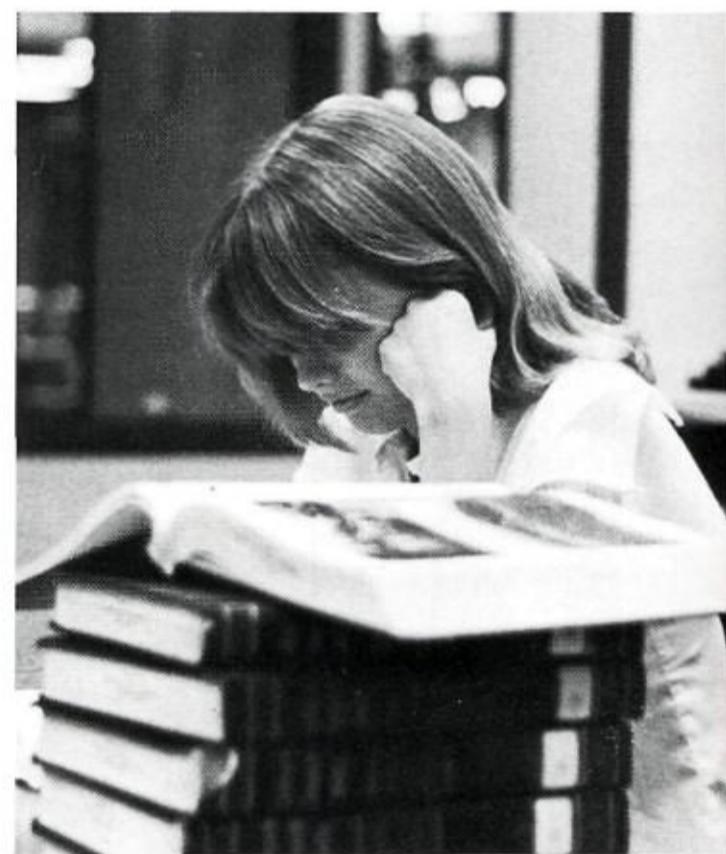

Mathematics was a course to speak for itself, "A Big confusing messy headache." Memorizing all those formulas and functions topped it off. We found ourselves falling asleep with numbers dancing around our heads instead of sheep.

History and Government were favored by most of us. Even though we often wondered why we had to take it. It gave us the opportunity to learn about our country and other ways of life. We became very good at taking notes after having a history class.

Science was quite interesting. We had the opportunity to do dissections, chemical experiments gravity, force and nature and so on were explained.

Health was a class which proved to be very profitable. It taught us the things we did not know about ourselves and gave us more detail on the things we thought we knew. Health taught us to know about us.

Struggling through those required classes was not that bad. We all enjoyed them in some way. And we had to admit that we learned something which would help us later in life.

student #1 "Oh. Are you gonna take any?"

student #2 "Yeah, it's an easy credit and I can sleep for an hour."

teacher: "Oh no you can't! These electives at Newman Smith are not easy classes that you can just sleep through. The courses include career interests as well as hobby interests."

student #1 "Really?"

student #2 "Then why do people say they're blow off?"

teacher: "Because that's exactly what students do. Blow it off as long as they're passing. If the courses are taken seriously, then they'll be to the student's advantage. The only easy part about electives is that they're optional. Some can ease the pressure from the solid courses. But most require interest and will to learn skills."

student #2 "What kinds of skills?"

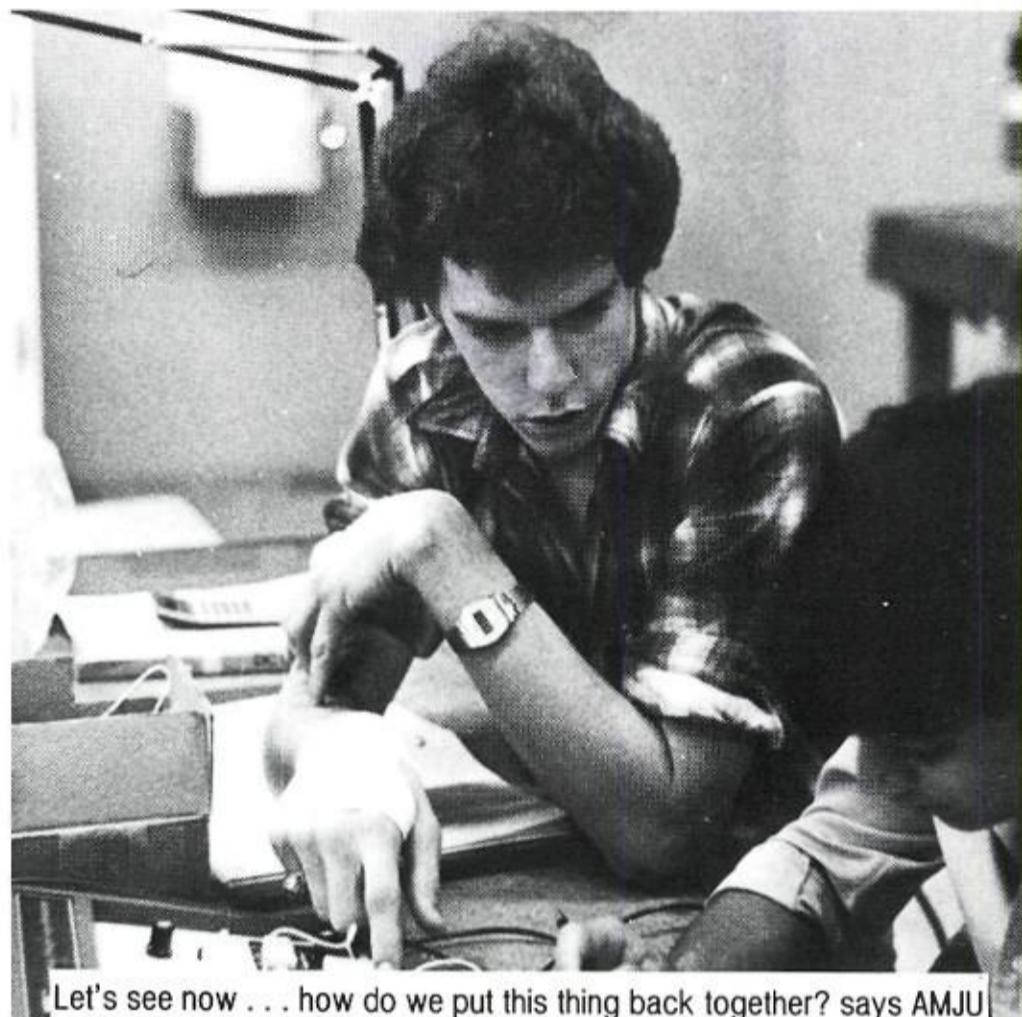

student #1 "Yeah, how can electives be to our advantage?"

teacher: "Well, for example, students interested in drama, art, or athletics can be taught the skills for these careers. Other electives in the field of business, such as typing, shorthand, or data processing can also teach the basic skills needed. Electives can also help students decide if they really would enjoy these types of careers."

student #1 "Well, what are we waiting for?"

student #2 "Let's go sign up for one."

teacher: "Slow down boys, no running in the halls!!"

VOCATIONS

The vocational classes at Newman Smith helped teach students skills in order to help ready them for a career after high school. Vocational classes are electives so students had the opportunity to sign up for them based on their personal abilities and interests. Some of the clubs opted to do fund-raising to help raise money for group activities. DECA had the weekly carnation sales during football season and also participated in the ever-famous candy sales. The clubs also gave members opportunities to match their skills against other high school students in UIL competitions. Along with all the fun and games, the vocational classes were able to help students learn practical skills and fundamentals in order to prepare for their careers.

When you get into the world — Promise Yourself:

To be so strong that nothing can disturb your peace of mind. To talk health, happiness and prosperity to every person you meet. Make all your friends feel that there is something in them. To look at the sunny side of everything and make your optimism come true. To think only of the best. To wear a cheerful countenance at all times, and give every living creature you meet a smile. To give so much time to the improvement of yourself that you have no time to criticize others. To be too large for worry, to be too noble for anger, too strong for fear and too happy to permit the presence of trouble.

We love You Very Much and Remember:

To one great daughter like you who will succeed to reach always to the final determination and will never lack the love and spirit.
From us,
Papa, Mama and Sis

would like to express our appreciation for all the hard work and help you have given us over the years. We hope you will have memories of us in years to come as we will have of you.

Thanks,

*Samantha,
Take one day at a time,
this is enough.
Do not look back and grieve
over the past, for it is gone;
and do not be troubled about the future, for it has not yet come. Live in the present, and make it so beautiful that it will be worth remembering.*

and . . .

To that very special someone in our lives.

Mom and Dad

*May the road
rise up to meet you,
May the wind be always
at your back,
May the sun shine warm
upon your face,
And the rain fall soft
upon your fields,
And forever
May God hold you in the palm of His hand.*

*May God hold you
in the palm of His hand.*

Richard,
Congratulations! We're proud of all your

Your children are not your children.
They are the sons and daughters of Life's longing for itself.
They come through you, but not from you,
And though they are with you, yet they belong not to you.
You may give them your love but not your thoughts.
You may house their bodies but not their souls,
For their souls dwell in the house of tomorrows, which you cannot visit, not even in your dreams
You may strive to be like them, but seek not to make them like you.

For life goes not backward nor tarries with yesterday.
You are the bows from which your children as living arrows are sent forth.
The archer sees the mark upon the path of the infinite, and He bends you with His might that His arrows may go swift and far.
Let your bending in the archer's hand be for gladness;
For even as he loves the arrow that flies, so He loves also the bow that is stable.

Congratulations Rhonda!

We Love You!

KEITH,

It has been a pleasure for us to have you as a son and a brother. There have been numerous times where we have needed someone to lean on and each time you have been there, as always. Even though you are the youngest, it is quite apparent that you have the biggest heart. Your concern and compassion is that of a much older individual.

We hope that someday you, as we have, will experience the same thrill as us — by watching your own children grow and mature into fine young adults. It is obvious that you have done just this and it has been, and will be in the many years ahead, our pleasure to know and, above all, be kin to you.

YOU CAN HELP

Conserving electricity and all forms of energy not only helps save our nation's precious energy resources, it helps you and your family save money. Do your part by closing windows and doors when the heating or air conditioning unit is on . . . don't graze with the refrigerator door open . . . hot water takes energy — try a shorter shower . . . turn off the TV or stereo when you are through with it. Work with your family to save energy now to assure enough for everyone when you start a family of your own.

1983 Comes to an End

Our performances as award-winning actors were soon brought to an abrupt end as the reel slowly began to roll off the closing moments of the year. Students began to see glimpses of a soon arriving summer following the Spring Break. As the end of the year approached, we found ourselves restless and eager to find a way to relieve the increasing tension from the never-ending pressures of classes and homework. Despite the tight policy of the administration, students were still able to end the year with a bang. The senior pranksters advertised a phony Freshman night at Six Flags, decorated the school landscape with 83 signs and decorated the cafeteria with funny looking "Trojan" balloons.

Seniors celebrated their achievements traditionally at the class outing, the awards assembly, the luncheon and the graduation ceremonies. Seniors were finally able to realize that they had spent the best years of their lives. School had offered us much more than we had ever dared to admit and the friendships that were made became even more important to us. Knowing that they were one step closer to graduation, underclassmen enjoyed Graduation just as much as Seniors.

Left: Senior Pranksters unload 83 signs that were an added attraction to the school landscape.*
